Town In Ecuador Believed Wiped Out By Earthquake

DEATH TOLL IS THOUGHT TO BE LARGE

Number of Victims Is Not Known and Rescue Parties Rush to Disaster

INHABITANTS FLEE

Thousands of Persons Are Reported Homeless in and Near Stricken City

QUITO, Ecuador, July 17.—(UP)—A sharp earthquake was believed today to have practically destroyed the town of Latacunga, 50 miles from Quito.

The shock struck at 3 p. m. yesterday, reports here said.

The number of victims was feared large.

Light shocks continued in the locality and residents were fleeing Latacunga, reports said.

The government planned relief measures and rescue parties were hurried to the scene. President Isidro Ayora and Colonel Carlos A. Guerrero, minister of interior, planned to proceed to the quake zone to supervise the work.

Thousands of persons were reported homeless in and near the devastated town. Most of the inhabitants, however, were believed to have escaped to the countryside, warned of impending disaster by subterranean rumblings.

The tremors were believed to have originated in the nearby Cotopaxi volcano. The severe shocks were confined to a radius of slightly over nine miles, although the disturbance was felt in lesser degree for miles in all directions.

Latacunga, Ecuador, is the capital of the province of Leon, and is one of the main highways, 50 miles directly south of Quito, the capital of the republic. The population is about 12,000 persons.

The stricken city has an elevation of 9118 feet in the Andes mountains, and is about 140 miles east of the Pacific. There are remains of the ancient Incas Indian civilization in the vicinity.

The city was destroyed by an earthquake in 1797.

FIFTEEN DEAD IN CHICAGO HEAT WAVE

CHICAGO, July 17.—(UP)—Sizzling heat waves beat down today upon the midwest, drove thousands of people to the beaches, killed more than 15 and caused untold suffering among sweltering millions who toiled under extremely high temperatures in the cities and upon the farms.

Although not so widespread or extended as the record heat wave which killed more than 1500 persons as it swept the country several weeks ago, the present wave has fastened its grip upon nine midwestern states and predictions today were it would continue many hours.

KILLS HUSBAND

SAN PEDRO, Calif., July 17.—(UP)—Dan Murphy, 41, took refuge in the bathroom of his home to escape the wrath of his wife during a quarrel. Mrs. Mary Murphy, 41, enraged at his retreat, took a revolver and shot through the door, killing her husband. She was arrested and charged with suspicion of murder.

ALBERT B. FALL IS ORDERED TO PRISON

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., July 17.—(UP)—United States Marshal Joe Tondre today received instructions from San Pedro Bates, federal prison superintendent, to "take Albert B. Fall into custody and proceed with him to the penitentiary" at Santa Fe.

The marshal expected to receive commitment papers this afternoon.

It was indicated Tondre would accompany Fall to prison from El Paso instead of permitting him to make an unattended trip.

Orders Revision Of Stock Rates

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(UP)—A general revision of western livestock freight rates was ordered by the interstate commerce commission today.

Most of the load was left behind by the bandits when they abandoned their automobile and fled into a woods. Ennen and the other pursuers followed and the deputy sheriff was shot by one of the bandits.

The bandits set off a burglar alarm while robbing the bank. Ennen immediately organized the posse and caught up with them after they had gone only a few miles.

Never put off till tomorrow what you can take off today.

SOCIAL LEADER OF WASHINGTON ANSWERS CALL

Mrs. Mary Henderson, Aged Foe of Smoking and Drink Is Dead

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(UP)—An era long since ended in the capitol lost its lone representative here when Mary Foote Henderson died in Bar Harbor, Maine, last night.

She was better known as Mrs. John B. Henderson. Her husband, long dead, was famous, too, but his memory is but a faint shadow in the picture of the Civil war period. His wife survived him to become a social force. Mary Foote Henderson battled joyfully against those customs which displeased her, such as smoking, drinking by either sex and the wearing of short skirts.

Mrs. Henderson played the game of politics shrewdly and often won. She dealt in real estate wisely and maintained her wealth. She made of 16th street an avenue of diplomats, building pretentious homes for the envoys and persuading them subsequently to purchase or rent her property.

Mary Foote Henderson was born in New England, daughter of a judge, niece of a United States senator who participated in the blazing debates prior and during the Civil war.

She loathed liquor and tobacco. She wrote books against them and against overeating. She was a vegetarian. In particular, Mrs. Henderson shunned the monstrosities and caprices of fashion in feminine attire." No maid servant in the Henderson castle could wear what her mistress was pleased to consider "scant or indecent clothes."

May 21, 1916, was a day of days in the Henderson castle. Women gathered there to discuss the evils of drink. John B. Henderson was dead but he had been no champion of his wife's views on the subject of drink. In the cellars of Henderson castle there were his stores of wine. Gathering her immigrant women about her, Mrs. Henderson raided that cellar as thoroughly as Carrie Nation ever sorted against a short grass country saloon. Soon the gutter on Mrs. Henderson's side of 16th street was flowing with the red wines of Burgundy, the yellow of Sauterne. The bubbles that dance on the surface of that small torrent were the bubbles of John B. Henderson's champagne.

She knew all the presidents from Lincoln to Mr. Hoover. In her swimming pool in the back garden of her home Mrs. Coolidge spent many summer afternoons.

DEPUTY SHERIFF IS KILLED BY BANDITS

BUCKLEY, Ill., July 17.—(UP)—Deputy Sheriff Henry Ennen was shot and killed today in a gun battle between a posse which he was leading and three bandits who had robbed the Buckley state bank of $5000.

The marshal expected to receive commitment papers this afternoon.

It was indicated Tondre would accompany Fall to prison from El Paso instead of permitting him to make an unattended trip.

Orders Revision Of Stock Rates

WASHINGTON, July 17.—(UP)—A general revision of western livestock freight rates was ordered by the interstate commerce commission today.

While substantial reductions were ordered for the most part, the order prescribed increased rates on short hauls and higher rates for movements in the northern parts of Missouri, and Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Most of the load was left behind by the bandits when they abandoned their automobile and fled into a woods. Ennen and the other pursuers followed and the deputy sheriff was shot by one of the bandits.

The bandits set off a burglar alarm while robbing the bank. Ennen immediately organized the posse and caught up with them after they had gone only a few miles.

HELENE QUILTS ROUMANIA TO VISIT FAMILY

Believed Final Gesture in Ending Unhappy Romance with Carol

BUCHAREST, Roumania, July 17.—(UP)—Helene of Greece, beautiful divorced wife of King Carol, planned to leave Roumania for Germany today, apparently as the final gesture in ending her unhappy romance.

She notified the government that she intended to go abroad for her health and to visit her family, with the "consent of the king."

Helene's sudden departure, however, was believed due to the fact that she had not been invited to the wedding this month of Princess Ileana, sister of King Carol, to the Archduke Anton von Hapsburg.

The king, who once desisted the throne and Helene for the flaming-haired Mme. Magda Lupescu again took the opportunity to embarrass his estranged wife. In the official communiqué announcing her intention to leave Roumania, Helene was referred to not as "her majesty," the title accorded a queen, but as "her highness," to which Helene is entitled by virtue of her birth as a royal princess of Greece.

Helene, turning her face toward the borders of Roumania, turned the tables on King Carol—for it was he who left once before, leaving wife, child, homeland and the throne for the love of the wife of a Roumanian army officer.

She divorced Carol when he failed to return after several years, and in the past year, since he suddenly flew back from France and seized the throne from his son, the "boy king," Michael, now 10, she has steadfastly rejected his efforts.

The election was the climax of Lions fifteenth annual convention which attracted over 5000 delegates from all over the North American continent and overseas. Mr. Hyer begins his term of office with 2500 Lions clubs in the association and approximately 100,000 members.

Mr. Hyer has for some time expressed the thought that a service club should serve its community, state and nation economically as well as socially. While he believes that service clubs have a distinct part to play in welfare and social work, it is his thought that such an international chain of business men's clubs should be, and is, powerful enough to have considerable influence in economic problems. Mr. Hyer, having served in the World war as Captain of the 11th Trench Mortar battery, and being at the present time post commander of the Ft. Worth American Legion, one of the largest posts in the country, feels that any detrimental factor working against international economic safety can, and should be, counteracted by sound and ethical business practice.

Two young women were ordered held for the coroner's inquest. They are Julia Clark, Kinston, and Norma Brewster, Tarboro.

RALEIGH, N. C., July 17.—(UP)—E. Marby Hart, nationally known cotton manufacturer of Tarboro, N. C., was found dead in the bathtub of his quarters at the Carolina hotel here early today.

His body was discovered after a fire which burned over his room and part of the hallway outside.

Coroner L. M. Wasil, starting an immediate investigation based on evidence Hart had participated in all night party with seven other people.

The acquisition was authorized in the form sought by the Baltimore & Ohio through a company to be known as the Alton Railroad company.

The trap was sprung at 10:01 a. m. Fourteen minutes later the physician announced the man was dead.

The firemen retired in disgust and confusion.

including lathes and other machinery recently installed. A paint spray gun which arrived at the building yesterday was also destroyed.

The fire apparently started in the ceiling and a spectacular feature of the fire was the falling of balls of flame from the ceiling when water was thrown into the building.

Supplies Saved

Supplies purchased for the coming school year and stored in the domestic science department, were saved. They were valued at about $1,000 and are thought not to be damaged.

The fire was discovered about 10 p.m. and the flames were not subdued until nearly three hours later. While firemen were battling the fire, $75 worth of brass fittings were stripped from the La Habra fire equipment. The equipment was purchased a year ago at a cost of $60,000.

One volunteer fireman was said to have been cut on the head by a falling timber.

The building was constructed of stucco and hollow tile.

SHE MIGHT BE RIGHT.

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Freda J. Winning, instructor of home economics at New York university, might be right in her assertion, but there'll be a lot of people who won't agree with her. Mrs. Winning says that grandma's cooking wasn't near as good as the cooking of the present day. True, she says it was good, but it did not contain the present knowledge of nutrition and dietetics which makes for a longer span of life.

would modulate their demands for server said:

"Unfortunately, the United States and British opposition sometimes collapses after the first act."

Statement Made

A Wilhelmstrasse spokesman further commented.

"Great Britain is now asking a general reduction in European tariffs, and if this aim were realized, it would mean a reduction of customs revenue. Hence to lift German customs as a guarantee for a ban would flagrantly conflict with the movement for lower tariffs."

It was understood Germany might tell France, the United States and Great Britain that continuation of construction of pocket battleships should be left to the approaching disarmament conference, but that the German would intend willingness to postpone construction of the third ship of the series. The first appropriation for this third ship is due in the 1932 budget.

It was believed Germany was doubtless ready not only to suspend the customs union project with Austria for a year, but would concur in shelving the whole plan in favor of the general European customs project proposed by Aristide Briand, French foreign minister.

CAVE ELEVATOR

CARLSBAD, N. M.—Tourists visiting the Carlsbad caverns near here will find the trip into the lower regions of the huge caves less difficult, if plans for a lift elevator go through. The elevator is to be built in a shaft 750 feet deep and will be used only for transporting visitors back to the surface. If installed, this elevator will rival many of those installed in skyscrapers.

Fined for Smoking In Restricted Area

F. Flaherty of Long Beach was fined this morning in the court of Judge A. W. Swaze at Orange for smoking on the Irvine property above Irvine park in a restricted district. Flaherty paid a fine of $25 and was given a suspended fine of $15. R. E. Reid, deputy state fire warden, made the arrest.

MILLION DOLLAR PAGEANT SCHEDULED AT HARBOR IN LIGHT TOURNEY TOMORROW

Craft valued at over a million dollars will participate in the thirteenth annual Tournament of Lights, to be held on Newport-Balboa bay at 8 o'clock tomorrow night. Over 100 boats will be included in the six divisions of the parade. Many cities and organizations in the county will have entries in the event, which is regarded by many as one of the most spectacular events in Southern California.

As a special attraction, the U.S. Navy, huge battleship, will be anchored off the bay and will be a spectacular sight under brilliant illumination. The battleship will also float the bay and surrounding territory with its powerful searchlights which will be in use during the tournament.

Mayor M. J. Johnson secured the Nevada for the tournament. The battleship, under command of Capt. John J. Ryland, will steam from the fleet anchorage off Los Angeles harbor to a point between Newport pier and Balboa pier where it will anchor between noon and 2 o'clock tomorrow.

At the evening dinner hour, Capt. Ryland and other ship's officers and their wives will be guests at a banquet at the Newport Harbor Yacht club, with city officials, heads of civic organizations, and prominent visitors to the tournament completing the guest list. It will be one of the most beautifully appointed banquets ever staged at the yacht club, famous for its hospitality.

The Tournaments of Lights features a boat parade of 100 craft, starting at 8 o'clock. It will con-space for all to view the parade in comfort.

Those who have seen the spectacle in former years need no invitation to return," say those in charge of the event. Those who have not seen this water carnival will find it one of the most interesting feasts ever witnessed.

E. L. Moore, general chairman, and his staff of committee chairmen have been working for many weeks preparing the details for staging the affair.

BAND AND CHOIR NUMBERS DELIGHT MUSIC LOVERS AT PARK CONCERT LAST NIGHT

By RUTH ANDREWS

The customary throng of several thousand appreciative Orange county music lovers gathered in Birch park last evening, attracted by an appealingly contrasted concert program which was presented by the Santa Ana Municipal band under the direction of D. C. Cianfoni, in honor of "Church Night."

Famous sacred classics, together with attractive numbers of lighter nature, were programmed by the band, while an especially appropriate feature was found in the appearance of the First Methodist Episcopal church choir in a delightful sacred song group, directed by their leader, Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh.

Fillmore's spirited march, "More Fraternity" evoked quick response, its clean-cut staccato phrasing pulsating with vitality. Thomas' well known overture, "Raymond" followed, the director's customary feeling for detail and contrast of shading lending clearly outlined basic themes against a subdued brass background, contrast and co-ordination of instrumentation clearly shown, while at the finale forte passage work was met with spirited emphasis.

A direct contrast was found in a delicate interpretation of instrumentation clearly shown, while at the finale forte passage work was met with spirited emphasis.

Equally enjoyed was the choir's rendition of Sullivan's familiar "Lost Chord," to which Mrs. Slabaugh's own beautiful contralto voice in solo passages lent much in tender sincerity, winning for her the appreciative tribute of the assembly.

Especially featured in honor of the sacred program was the famous Wagnerian masterpiece, "Parsifal," of distinctly symphonic nature. This impressive work, with its ever-shifting orchestration and interweaving of colorful harmonic themes received an effective reading, interpreted by Cianfoni with his usual sensitivity and the poetic insight so necessary to Wagnerian interpretation. Especially compelling was the final theme, where the work mounts even higher, to a point of religious ecstasy, well met by the instrumentation through the fervent finale.

Coquettish grace of the Delibes intermezzo "Pas des Fleurs" made charming contrast, silvery clarinets outlining the fluent delicacy of the melodic pattern forming this typical ballet number.

Melodically pleasing, the director's own "Echoes of the Cathedral" never fails to win favor with local audiences, its realistic hint of chimes and contralto melody suggestive of a slowly-moving procession of priests through quiet convent gardens. Continued response brought a medley of familiar old hymns of martial rhythm, including the old favorite "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

Concluding in popular vein, the buoyant novelty, "The Village Blacksmith," (de Carmont) with its realistic suggestion of clanging anvil made a lighthearted close. Announcement was made by Harry Hanson, president manager of the band, concern next week's program, when "Orange County Night" will be tured, with the popular tenorist, familiarly known as "Singing Cop," scheduled to appear in an appropriate group song.

EVANGELIST TELLS GREAT THROGHT TO GOVERN LIFE BY HOLY BIBLE YARD STICK

"The Grace of God Which Appears to All Men," was the subject for Evangelist John Brown's soul stirring message which he delivered to a capacity crowd at the tabernacle on South Broadway last night. The revival last evening was a special occasion for delegates from Anaheim, Orange and Garden Grove.

The Arkansas Travelers opened the services singing "Let Us Walk in the Light of the Road," followed by a solo from Eileen Farrar, "Nothing Between."

When the grace of God first appears it comes as a teaching grace, the revivalist pointed out. "Grace taught you that there was a way to be carried to Christ from the gutter but when grace has brought us to Christ we have just started," said Brown. "A person can't grow into religious experience, he must be born into it."

The evangelist especially stressed the point that we can grow in grace but not into grace. "How many of us are really growing in grace? A lot of us are bigger the day that we are born into the kingdom of God, than we are at the present day. There are millions of people in the church today who are not growing in grace."

"This is an age in which every man desires to form his own plans and ideas. Everyone thinks he is privileged to set his own standard of everything, including religion. Well, you may be right but according to my way of thinking when you reach such a state that you think you know it all then neither God nor man can help you. You have a right to your opinion providing you know what you are talking about."

"Nine times out of 10 what we speak of as liberty is just plain lawlessness. Oh, the crimes that are committed in the name of liberty! The one thing which has put humanity wrong is the determination to live outside of God. If every church said to its members, From now on you will have to live up to the standards set forth by Christ, hundreds of the congregation would leave. You have no right to your opinion when it plows crossways to God and the Bible. The Bible is the yardstick for your opinions in religious matters and if they don't coincide you are wrong."

"Grace will teach you to drive out worldly lusts. What we need is to get back to the old book instead of looking for a new religion. It is not enough to be negatively good but you must be positively righteous. The two must be combined in order to gain power. The churches are filled with people who are negatively good. They never fight, never go to shows, never quarrel, never play cards and never do anything good or bad. There is another class in our churches which is positively righteous, but let a circus come to town and they slip a cog. When these people do good they go like wildfire, but they go just as fast the other way. Grace will teach you to combine the two."

"The people of today need to be more sober minded and think things through. What we ought to have is more right living and the practicing of Christ's teachings. What America is crying for is men and women who will stand for God and His teachings until the world burns."

"Grace will teach us to deny our doubts and deny worldly lusts," asserted the evangelist in closing his sermon.

TRAVEL BILLS OF AMERICANS LARGE IN 1930

WASHINGTON, July 16.—(INS)—During 1930 everybody in the world spent on travel a total of $7,500,000,000 and of this amount $4,100,000,000 was spent in the United States, according to figures issued by the American Automobile Association.

Americans spent $3,975,000,000 in their own country on travel and $940,000,000 abroad, a total of $4,915,000,000.

Foreigners spent $125,000,000 in the United States and $2,500,000,000 in other parts of the world. The total amount therefore spent by foreigners on travel amounted to $2,625,000,000.

Although Americans constitute only 15 per cent of the world's population they spent, according to the above figures almost half of all the money spent on travel in the world.

The travel bill of the world can also be itemized as follows:

Vacation motor tours in U. S., $3,200,000,000.

Vacation travel by rail in U. S., $750,000,000.

Vacation travel by air and water in U. S., $25,000,000.

Vacation travel by Americans in Canada (motorists) $825,000,000.

Vacation travel by Americans in Canada (by rail and water) $75,000,000.

Vacation travel by Americans in Europe and Levant, $500,000,000.

Vacation travel by Americans in Mexico, $40,000,000.

Visitors to United States from Canada, Mexico, Europe, other foreign lands and the insular possessions, $125,000,000.

Expenditures throughout the world for vacation travel, other than by Americans and visitors to the U. S., $2,500,000,000.

Total world travel bill, $7,500,000,000.

If no one traveled for one year and the money spent on travel during 1930 were distributed equally among the people of this country, every man, woman and child would receive $4.00.

If every one in the United States had turned the money they spent on travel in 1930 into a fund to be distributed equally among the people of this country, every man, woman and child would receive $40.

If the people of the United States turned the money they spent on travel into the U. S. treasury to pay off Europe's war debt to us, Europe would not owe us anything in three years.

BROWN'S BARBS

The first thing they ask about preachers now when they hire them is "Does he cut it short?" Nowadays the preacher is like a wagon wheel—the longer the spoke the bigger the tire.

It's only a question of time when folks quit going to church to get the gospel, but there'll be filling stations along the way and they'll drive up, stop a minute, get an injection of religion and speed on. When that time comes I'd like to operate a filling station. I'd inject them, don't you worry.

This is a day of boasted liberty. The trouble is most of us are taking liberties instead of the liberty that God gives. Most of this liberty is only lawlessness, bold, flagrant and damnable.

There are a lot of folks in our churches who are goody-goody folks. They don't lie or steal, or play cards or dance or play golf on Sunday, or do anything wrong. And they don't pray, or take any part in meeting, or sing or pray, or anything. They just sit. They don't do anything bad and they don't do anything good. They're just sitting.

Old Sister Setter and old Brother Setter and the whole Setter family come here to these meetings night after night, and set. They don't sing, they don't pray, they don't pray, they don't smile. They don't help the meetings. They just sit. A few of the Setter family scattered around in the front rows will bust up any revival meeting.

LAGUNA BEACH, July 17.—Plans for forming a university club were discussed at a meeting of a small group held Tuesday evening at the Chamber of Commerce building. Charles Hartwell Smith was made temporary chairman to perfect a plan of organization, with a call issued for Tuesday, July 28, at 7:30.

All college men of universities or of the army and navy are eligible

as members and invited to attend the meeting. Terry Stephenson,

PHIL STANTON
COMMENTS ON STATE ROADS

Development of California's vast highway system from the time when it was a more or less fantastical dream to the modern period of an extensive and growing network was sketched by Highway Commissioner Phil A. Stanton, of Anaheim, in the June issue of California Highways and Public Works, official journal of the state public works department.

Stanton recalled the year 1905, when as a member of the assembly he was asked to introduce the county bonding act permitting counties to build roads outside municipalities.

"But I was too wise," he recalled in the article. "Why should they try to hand me a lemon like that to sponsor? Roads into the country? Oh no. The thing was absurd. I handed it to my colleague and he put the measure through." And Stanton went on to show how "The gospel of good roads has gone over with a bang."

The difference between predictions in contrast to actual developments was shown by Stanton through recalling a prophecy made in 1896 about the effect of the bicycle on highways. Apparently no one at that time thought that the automobile soon would rule the roads in place of the bicycle, for the prophet of 1896 said:

"Any machine which enables a man to travel with pleasure, without discomfort and practically without expense, 40 miles a day, is evidently one which has come to stay and the number of wheelmen will surely reach extraordinary proportions in the years to come."

"I am not a prophet," concluded Stanton. "The figures on road construction, the determination of Californians to open up every section of their state to travel and trade—these things make me fight shy of prophecy in 1896. You try."

CAPT. GALE WILL TRAIN IN ALABAMA

It was learned today, in an announcement from the Presidio of San Francisco. He will report to the commandant of that school on or about September 15, 1931.

Captain Gale was graduated from the University of California with the degree of bachelor of science in 1917. He is also a graduate of the air corps technical school, photographic course, 27; chemical warfare school, unit gas officers' course, 28, and is rated an air pilot.

Cotant Tells Of Bank of America
Property Policies

The semi-annual statement of the Bank of America National Trust and Savings association, recently published, shows that, with the exception of its various banking offices, the Bank of America owns no real estate, either city, suburban or country, which, according to C. L. Cotant, vice president and manager of the Santa Ana branch, is one of the major factors which enables the bank to maintain an unusually liquid position.

"Since the founding of the Bank of America, more than 25 years ago, the management has demanded that the bank's assets show a large percentage of liquidity, regardless of general economic conditions," Cotant said. "To meet this demand on the part of the bank's management; to meet changing economic conditions, and to best serve the bank's customers, two distinct and independently capitalized corporations were formed to purchase from the bank any real estate which might become the property of the bank."

"These corporations are not in any sense holding companies, but active, operating, specialized, going businesses."

During the past five years, the total number of foreclosures made by the bank, including all units now merged with the Bank of America, Cotant points out, has averaged slightly over one per branch per year. This, he believes, is truly a remarkable record.

From Hottest to Coldest

Pretty hot—but a long way below the upper limits of temperature . . . a steel mill, where the temperature of the liquid metal is about 3000 degrees Fahrenheit.

By D. LINDSAY WATSON

INTESE cold, lower in temperature than the extreme chill of empty interstellar space, is now within the reach of mere man. Extreme cold has become a tool for physicists in their study of the nature of matter.

But the hottest temperature in the universe, believed to exist in the center of the hotter stars to the astounding heat of some 72,000,000 degrees Fahrenheit, has not yet been approached on earth. An exploding electric wire with a temperature of 45,000 degrees is the scientist's farthest up on the temperature scale. This is, however, many times the heat produced by the hottest of practically useful temperatures, that used in welding with atomic-hydrogen flames. It rates some 7640 degrees Fahrenheit.

At the cold end of the temperature scale is absolute zero, a point that probably is not attainable either by man on earth or under natural conditions outside the earth.

With increasing cold, the ultimate particles of all substances lock fast to each other to become solid. The atoms may quiver more or less as the cold increases, but when the last dregs of heat are taken away the stillness of death overtakes them. This is the absolute zero, where no motion whatever by the atoms is found.

It is easy to see why one cannot go beyond absolute zero. Once one is dead one cannot be deader. Absolute zero is 459 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

Man has pushed his explorations downward in temperature to within 1.6 degrees Fahrenheit of absolute zero. This intense cold, lower than that of the space between the stars, which Professor A. S. Eddington estimates to be 5.4 degrees Fahrenheit above absolute zero, was reached at Leiden, Holland, a few years ago.

The production in liquid helium of a temperature of 3.4 degrees Fahrenheit above absolute zero at the National Bureau of Standards this year is the record cold for the United States. Helium becomes liquid somewhat higher, at 7.4 degrees above absolute zero.

CONTRAST these extreme temperatures of science's making with the highest and lowest temperatures made by weather on the surface of the earth.

The hottest climatic temperature ever reported on earth is 136 degrees Fahrenheit in the shade, in the Sahara desert. Two degrees less has been felt by Americans in Death Valley, California. Water boils at 212 degrees Fahrenheit or 671 on the absolute thermometer.

The coldest temperature made by nature on the earth is believed to be somewhere in northern Siberia, where temperatures of 90 degrees below zero Fahrenheit have been observed. Actually this is still 369 degrees above the absolute zero of cold.

Man's highest artificial temperature, 45,000 degrees, is obtained for a brief instant by passing a 50,000 volt current through a fine wire of tungsten. There is a blinding flash, a bang, a puff of air and a light 100 times as bright as an equal area of the sun is produced. The chromosphere, or outer layer of the sun, is actually at about 13,000 degrees Fahrenheit. The temperature of the explosion is measured by comparing its brightness with that of the surface of the sun.

The exploding wire cannot be used for any practical purpose. Atomic hydrogen flames, however, at 7600 degrees, devised a short time ago by Dr. Irving Langmuir of the General Electric Company, are now being used for welding ships and pipes. The hydrogen is first broken up into its atoms in an electric arc and these are burned in oxygen to give a greater heat than ordinary molecular hydrogen. The usual oxyhydrogen blowpipe flame gives only 3600 degrees.

Just about the highest useful temperature that man can produce . . . a workman welding a steel pipe with atomic hydrogen . . . which produces a heat of 7640 degrees.

The blinding bluish-white flame of the oxyacetylene torch to be seen in many manufacturing plants is at 5500 degrees. This is somewhat less than the estimated heat of the center of the earth, 6000 degrees, approximately the temperature at which tungsten melts.

The best electric furnace gives only 4900 degrees, though this is more than enough for many purposes. Iron melts at 2745 degrees and is at a dull red heat at about 1500 degrees.

ANOTHER attempt to make the hottest hot-stuff was recently made at the Westinghouse Research Laboratories in East Pittsburgh. Here a large current was carried by an arc in a vacuum, not by a wire, and concentrated on a small spot on a metal plate. Early hopes that star temperatures had been produced by this method were dashed, but some 5400 degrees Fahrenheit was reached.

These are poor efforts, however. Any second-rate star can do better than this. Professor Eddington, by juggling some mathematical formulae, has calculated the giant stars to have 72,000,000 degrees at their cores, the temperature falling as one passes outwards to the surface. Mephistopheles would be happy there, one would imagine.

On the other hand, the universe can improve hardly at all man's best cold, for the absolute zero which we have approached within a degree or two cannot be surpassed by any agency in this world or the next. Thus, while man is millions of degrees short of the highest temperature possible, he is extremely close to the lowest.

Here are some other low temperatures: liquid hydrogen is at 36 degrees above absolute zero or -423 degrees on the Fahrenheit scale. Liquid air, made industrially in large quantities and used at the rate of 100 quarts a day at

(Copyright, 1931)

New experiments of American scientists have just produced liquid helium at 456 below zero, within 3.4 degrees of the coldest temperature possible, though the highest heat produced by man is a 50,000 volt electric flash only 45,000 degrees above zero, far from the 72,000,000 degrees registered at the center of the sun temperature research for the solution of some of its problems. At these intense colds, where the disturbing darting to-and-fro of the atoms is reduced to a minimum, the nature and properties of substances show up more clearly. The amounts of heat that various kinds of matter will hold at these low temperatures will be investigated.

At the low temperature achieved, every substance except the helium itself is frozen hard, even gases like hydrogen, which next to helium is the most difficult gas to liquefy.

Super electro-magnets may soon be made in the cold of liquid helium. Large currents of electricity are required for these and a hundred thousand times more current is carried by metals at the lowest temperatures than under ordinary conditions.

DR. PETER KAPITZA of the University of Cambridge, England, is already busy with this problem. Using giant surges of current, up to 70,000 amperes, he has already made stronger magnets than ever before on the earth. By immersing his wires in liquid helium still larger currents and more powerful magnets will be made by him, he believes.

At the University of Berlin, low temperature technique has reached its highest development. Under the direction of Dr. Franz Simon 13 to 15 quarts of liquid hydrogen are made there per hour. Five to six quarts of liquid helium per hour can now be made in Berlin as against six hundredths of a quart recently obtained in Washington.

Again and again the curiosity of the laboratory has become an everyday commodity. Such may easily happen in this case. Commercial liquid hydrogen is certainly an immediate possibility and, at no very distant future, perhaps, commercial liquid helium. Are still lower temperatures possible? Can the absolute zero itself be reached or even surpassed? These are favorite questions. At present no other means of further lowering the temperature than that used by Professor Keesom to make solid helium is known. Each hundredth of a degree is gained at the greatest pains, at that distance from the absolute zero, but no doubt the experimental limit will be lowered.

Matter itself might be destroyed if the absolute zero were reached. Super X-rays devastating everything in their path, similar to but immensely stronger than the cosmic radiation that streams down into the earth's atmosphere from the depths of space, would result from this achievement.

The sweltering residents of Washington will get little relief from the new American achievement for the super-cold chamber wears many overcoats to keep it from getting warm. No difference of warmth can be felt in the room in which the apparatus is set up.

COOLNESS is required, however, of Dr. Brickwedde and his assistants for a violent explosion may wreck their apparatus at any time. The liquid hydrogen, used in large amounts to help lower the temperature, forms an explosive mixture in the air if only two percent is present. Fatal accidents have ended the lives of previous workers with this substance. For this reason, smoking and open flames are taboo in the Cryogenic Laboratory where the low temperature work is carried on.

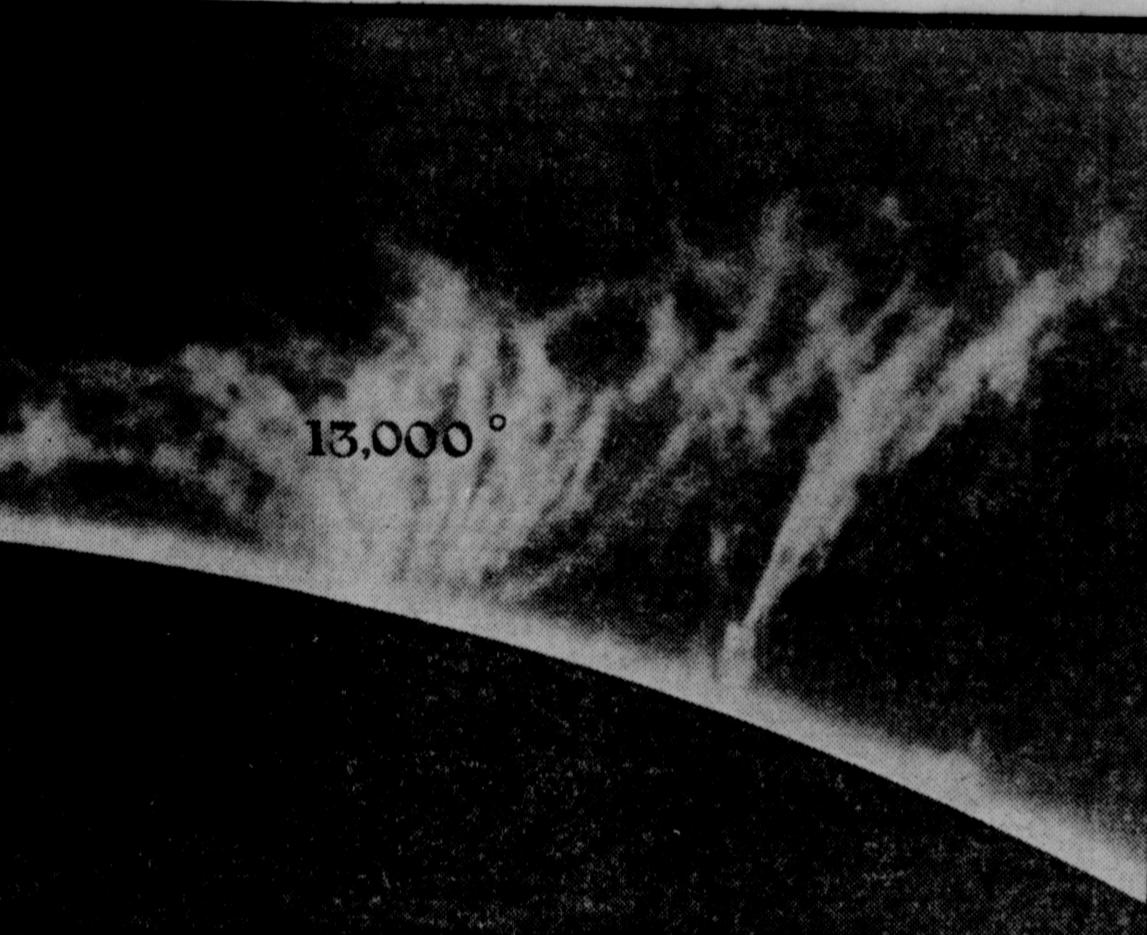

At the Bureau of Standards no one has actually seen the new liquid. It is made inside a double brass cylinder. Just how cold it is told by measurements of the pressure of the helium and of the super-electrical conductivity of a lead ring sunk in it. A current keeps flowing for a long time without assistance in metals cooled by the liquid helium.

The liquefaction itself is carried out in stages, increasingly low temperatures being obtained by applying the same method several times.

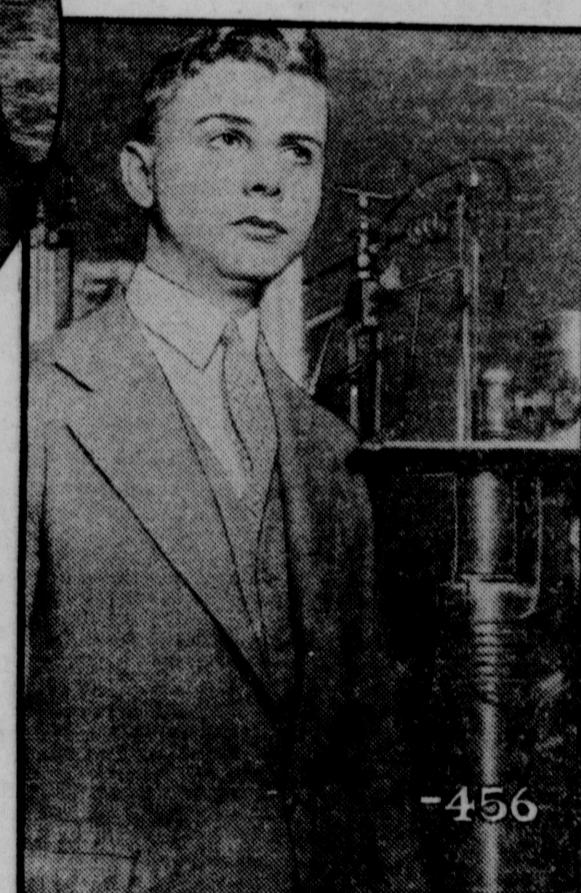

When the air in a tire pump is compressed, the barrel of the pump gets hot. By compressing any ordinary gas, then, it is heated. Now the reverse of this happens if the gas is decompressed or allowed to expand. It cools itself. If, then, one starts at a sufficiently low temperature it is possible by this means to go even lower until eventually the gas is liquefied.

Here then is the reason for using difficultly liquefiable gases for this work.

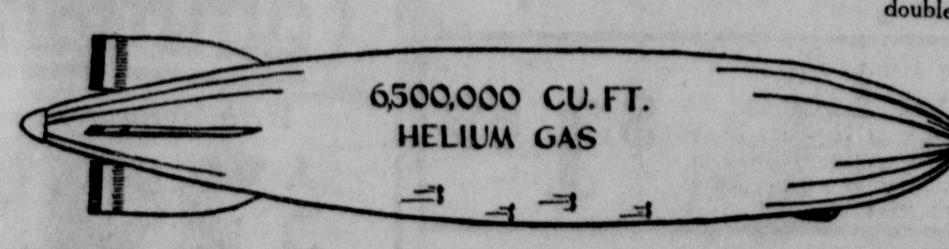

To liquefy helium, other gases are used. First liquid air is produced, with a temperature lowered to 296 degrees below zero. Then hydrogen is compressed in liquid air, decompressed and cooled again, until it too is liquid. Helium is then cooled with liquid hydrogen, put through the same process, and eventually turned into a liquid itself.

A long way off . . . but very hot, just the same . . . the outer layer of the sun's chromosphere, with great flames of hydrogen leaping up 80,000 miles into empty space . . . where a temperature of approximately 13,000 degrees prevails.

Getting down close to absolute zero, with a temperature of -456 degrees . . . Dr. F. G. Brickwedde, in charge of the work at the Bureau of Standards . . . with the liquid helium chamber visible at his left.

How helium contracts when it is liquefied . . . The new navy dirigible Akron will hold 6,500,000 cubic feet of the gas . . . which, if liquefied, would only fill a balloon 26 feet in diameter, as shown here.

AT the Bureau of Standards, Dr. H. C. Dickinson, Dr. F. G. Brickwedde, W. Cook, R. B. Scott and J. M. Smoot, working far into the night, perfected their super-refrigerators just ahead of two other laboratories competing for the honor of being the first to make liquid helium, the Johns Hopkins University and the University of California. Why all this pursuit of such cold? What does scientists hope to find there?

The magnificent achievements of physicists on the constitution of matter point clearly to low

SUPERIOR OIL BREAKS GROUND FOR REFINERY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 17.—The Superior Oil company is breaking ground on the east bluff between the east side residence district of the city and the ocean for its proposed refinery, waste water disposal plant and oil fields storage yards. This proposed plant, which will occupy 14 acres of ground, effectively hedges in the city with the oil field accessory plants.

The Superior will apply to the county supervisors for a permit for the refinery which they propose to erect just outside the city limits. This will cut off any tax revenue from the city and yet it will not benefit the east side residential district, where some of the finest homes in the city are located.

Grants Pipe Line Permits

The city council granted the pipe line permits for three pipe lines, one for gas, one for oil, one for waste water. These pipe lines cut across every street in the entire city, running from Twenty-third street to Atlanta. All pavements must be torn up.

The waste water disposal plants, refineries and other oil field accessories have heretofore been confined to the developed oil area, this being the first time any company has been allowed to go outside the proven field for the oil field buildings.

East side residents are hoping the county supervisors will investigate the situation thoroughly before permitting the oil company to establish a refinery on the bluff where the smoke and objectionable odors will be wafted over the residence district, the only section of the city now free from encroachment of the oil operators.

Plan Court Action

If protests are unavailing, the citizens will take the matter into the courts in an attempt to protect their property from damage.

There is still time to refer the action of the city council in granting the permit for the pipe lines, which was all the Superior asked of the council, evidently changing the original plans, which contemplated locating the refinery inside the city limits.

A year ago, when the Superior first applied for its permits, at that time promising only an absorption plant would be built, a protest signed by a great many property owners was filed with the council. The protest received no action by the council and the permit was granted. It expired by limitation and was renewed and renewed again, until 10 days ago, when a new permit was applied for.

Not knowing of the pending application, the property owners were not on hand to protest against it. Now that it is realized that a full-fledged refinery is being planned, the property owners are incensed against the project. They are planning to bear the heavy expense and tumult of litigation.

Prepare Greens For Laguna Beach Lawn Bowlers

LAGUNA BEACH, July 17.—With the new greens of the Laguna Beach Lawn Bowling club being mowed for the second time and likely to be ready for use early in September, the club is urging that other organizations get behind park beautification.

About $1200 has been spent by the Bowling club, according to Karl S. Kittle, who was most active in getting it formed. A membership of 100 is boasted by it. The Bowlers will do anything to assist in getting additional work done in the park, Mr. Kittle says.

Plans were made for the city council more than two years ago for planting in the park. The original plans did not contemplate use of the park so much as beautification of it. It is reported that the Woman's club has a project of planting in the park, but has withheld all work pending water being put in the park for irrigating shrubs and plants.

LEGIONNAIRES WILL DEDICATE MEMORIAL HALL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 17.—This city will look like a divisional army headquarters tomorrow afternoon and night when thousands of Legionnaires from all over the state will gather here for the dedication of the new Memorial hall, home for Legionnaires and all war veterans and one of the finest soldier clubhouses and meeting halls in the state.

The city spent $40,000 remodeling a building that had cost $35,000 originally and there is approximately $25,000 in equipment inside the beautiful building, which gives the members and their ladies' auxiliary organizations a $100,000 home.

Property of Veterans

It is to belong to the veterans as long as one is left to enjoy it. With the passing of the last Legionnaire the property and its furnishings revert to the city.

Huntington Beach has kept the faith with the boys who went over there and were told that when they came back there would be a welcome awaiting them and a gratitude expressed that would exemplify the appreciation of the people at home for the deeds done and the privations suffered.

This little oil city with its rich treasury is one of the first in California to pay a worthy tribute to veterans in providing them with a luxurious meeting hall and club rooms. It comes 11 years after the war, but there are 175 Legionnaires in Joseph Rodman post of this city to enjoy it.

Notable Guests

State, county and district officers will be here tomorrow for the dedication and they will be served with a splendid banquet in the new Memorial hall at 6 o'clock in the evening. Everything is free to soldiers here tomorrow. They cannot buy a meal as they will be served noon meals at the downtown restaurants as guests of the Legion post.

Following the banquet at night there will be a meeting of the district organization of the Legion and at 9 o'clock there will be a grand military ball in the ballroom of Memorial hall. The hall is open to the public and it is expected there will be from 300 to 400 couples on the floor.

REBEKAH LODGE OF FULLERTON SEATS OFFICERS

FULLERTON, July 17.—Installation of officers of the Fullerton Rebekah Lodge was held Wednesday at a formal ceremony officiated over by Jennie Mae Annin, district deputy president, and her staff officers in the Odd Fellows hall. The hall was decorated in large baskets of light-hued flowers. Sade Granz was installed noble grand and Lotte Dreyer, past noble grand.

The other installing officers wore figured chiffons: Helen Zincke and Edna Grunwald, white; Blythe Bowles and Alice Voettner, rose; Alice Goodwin and Evelyn Cobb, blue; Rose Schalles and Bess Doheny, lavender; Mary Annin and Rachel Bell, green, and Olive Patton, Lomita Lathrop and Ellen Woodward, pastel.

Ada Madison of San Francisco, secretary of the Rebekah and a special guest, was introduced. Mrs. Madison was presented by Jennie Annin with a corsage of sweet peas. J. B. Nankervis of Westminster, district deputy grand master, was also introduced and complimented the lodge on its ritual work.

Olive Patton presented Lottie Dreyer with her Rebekah noble grand pin, gift of the officers. Mrs. Dreyer also received several floral baskets and gifts.

Mrs. Granz's little daughter, Lois, with Marion Grunwald and Henrietta Patton, brought in a large floral basket, gift of Mr. Granz. Mrs. Granz also received other gifts. She presented each of her officers with a corsage.

Mary Annin gave each of the drill team members a fan-shaped corsage of hand-made sweet peas.

Other flowers were given the various officers.

After the installation, the guests, numbering about 200, were ushered into the banquet hall, which had been decorated by Jessie Anderson, assisted by Frieda Jackson and Lottie Dreyer. Cakes and ices were served by the refreshment committee.

Lodge Sets Date To Seat Officers

BREA, July 17.—At the regular business session of Trinity Rebekah lodge held here Monday night, the evening of July 29 was set for installation of officers of the new Memorial hall at 6 o'clock in the evening. Everything is free to soldiers here tomorrow. They cannot buy a meal as they will be served noon meals at the downtown restaurants as guests of the Legion post.

Final reports were read and bonds executed at Monday night's meeting in preparation for the meeting of July 29 when a large attendance is expected from other lodges in the district. Mrs. Annin was present on Monday night with her husband, Floyd Annin. Following the meeting the members remained for a watermelon supper.

LAGUNA BEACH CITY COUNCIL AWARDS CONTRACT ON PAVING OF MORE THAN 17 STREETS

LAGUNA BEACH, July 17.—Accepting the bid of O. U. Miracle for improving of more than 17 streets in the Cliffs section and Cody addition, the city council adopted the resolution ordering the paving of the streets. The bid of the Miracle company, which has just finished the paving of Ocean avenue and El Paseo, was for $172,070.30. The highest of the six bids considered by the council was $248,300.

Councilman Frank B. Champion said that the amount was $60,000 in excess of bids received August 19, 1930, for the same streets, when bids submitted ranged from $125,389 to $233,633, though all bids were rejected. Low bidder at that time, Gribble & Burke, protested that an error in computation had been made and wanted to change their bid by raising it about $10,000 or withdrawing it. The council rejected all bids at that time.

Compare Items

A comparison, item by item, of the bid made by Gribble & Burke a year ago and the Miracle bid of Wednesday evening showed that figures ran comparably the same, the increased sum of the total being attributed chiefly to the modified specifications calling for a different type of surfacing and of thickness, double that of the previous bids. Councilman Champion thought that the added amount of assessment, computed at about $100 per lot, was more than should be put on property owners. Attention was directed to the more enduring type of surface to be used.

There are nearly 700 lots in the district to be improved. City Engineer Frank P. Gowan gave the district as having 10 miles of curbs and gutters, five miles of street, with several miles of alleys, though not all of the latter in the district are included in the improvement. Councilman C. R. Clapp appealed for the employment of home labor, concurred in by the council. Work is to be under the 1931 act.

Livestock, sewers and garbage engrossed the council during a large part of its session, which lasted until 11:30.

Sewage Fees

The most subject of sewers was produced when A. E. Marshall asked the council to divide the $75 fee required of a laundry for sewer service, to be divided into four payments. Councilman Champion and George Wilson thought that the grant of privilege for connection was enough and that the fee should be paid in advance. John Arscott, who had argued against allowing connections made for those outside the district, wanted the council to lay the entire matter on the table. In a vote Councilman Clapp, M. B. McMillan and Mayor Bishop carried a motion to allow payments to be made quarterly.

Garbage was introduced as a subject of discussion when City Clerk George W. Prior's list of delinquents was placed before the council. These have not paid garbage collection fees. About 200 were on the list.

In the discussion it was pointed out that to bury garbage is a misdemeanor. Several methods of handling the situation were tentatively hazarded, but the matter was finally referred to City Attorney Milburn Harvey for report at the next meeting.

Nuisance Ordinance

Reading of the new nuisance ordinance placed additional restrictions on keeping of livestock within the city limits. It went to third reading. Under its provision, not more than two horses or mules may be kept on premises within the city and these not closer than 200 feet of any dwelling, school, church or structure used for human habitation. Councilman Clapp thought the riding academy should not be eliminated, pointed to its cleanliness and offered to set a table in the middle of the corral and eat there for a month. Dog kennels and fowls come within the 200-foot restriction placed on keeping of livestock. Noise nuisance is also defined.

Possibility of legal complications in spreading of assessment for the Cliffs district was raised by Councilman Champion, who directed attention to the strip parcelling Cliff drive from Coast boulevard to Beach street, a width of about 63 feet, owned by the county of Orange and not dedicated specifically to public use. A. B. Monroe, representing the legal adviser in street improvements, Arthur Ellis, thought there would be no difficulty. It was pointed out that this is not a park as has been generally supposed, not being dedicated for any specific purpose.

Abandon Alley

The request of E. M. Buckius for abandonment of alley in El Mirador was reported to have 100 percent of property owners signed. The attorney was directed to draw the proper proceedings. Checks were received from Stillman B. Jamison's attorneys in the suits in which the city was involved with him over property on the waterfront. A complaint from Dr. Gardner Chapin over the method of first aid rendered in the case of Charles Rafferty, drowned July 4, was referred to Councilman McMillan for investigation. A complaint from John D. Beyer on water lines being torn up was referred to the attorney. Audit of city accounts, not legally necessary, was referred to accountants, the audit to be made quarterly with complete annual audit. The next regular meeting of the council is August 5.

TWO ANAHEIM CHURCH GROUPS OPEN CONCLAVE

ANAHEIM, July 17.—Official opening of the joint convention of the Baptist Young People's union and the Sunday schools of the German Baptist church of California was held last night when delegates from all over the state assembled at the Bethel Baptist church at 7:30 p. m. The convention will continue until Sunday night with the concluding phase being the union church services in the Anaheim city park. It was announced today by the Rev. O. R. Schroeder, pastor of the Bethel Baptist church.

During the first session held last night, the Rev. Schroeder delivered a brief address, welcoming the delegates to Anaheim. The Rev. A. A. Schade of Pittsburg, Pa., who is general field secretary of young people's societies, was the speaker of the evening. Reports were made by chairmen of various state departments.

Demonstrate Bible Study

The first session held today was held at 9 o'clock when a demonstration of Bible study was made. The Rev. K. Feldmeth of Los Angeles opened the program with devotionals. The topic of the Bible study was "Joseph" and was led by the Rev. F. J. Reichle of San Francisco. The Rev. Reichle delivered a sermon, "How to Decide What is Right and What is Wrong," in which he declared that the only way to do this was to rely upon your conscience and to put implicit faith in God. "The Present Dangers of Our Young People" was the title of an address delivered by H. Iland, of Wasco, who pointed out that the modern youth was confronted with more temptation than was the youth of olden days. The Rev. Schade also delivered an address entitled "Sunday School Ideals" in which he pointed out the objects of Sunday schools and the benefits that young people derived from them.

Dan Marshall of Anaheim was scheduled to lead the devotionals to be held at the church this afternoon. Bible study on "Timothy" is to be led by Frank Wall of Los Angeles; a lecture on "The Needs of Our Young People" to be delivered by Paul Leuschner of Los Angeles; another address, "Study of the History of the Bible," to be delivered by the Rev. G. E. Lodi, of Lodi, and the final address to be given by the Rev. Schade.

Preparing Chart

John W. Price, city manager, declared yesterday that he was preparing a chart showing water levels in the Santa Ana valley basin compared to the ocean level, pointing out the danger of the fresh water in the basin becoming polluted with salt water if wells should become lower than the level of the ocean. The city will also send out pamphlets with information on the aqueduct to be built from the Boulder dam to the district and also a return postal card so that those who desire authentic information on the project may have it sent to them at regular intervals.

Sheridan declared that the committee believed that the Metropolitan Water District project should be started as soon as possible and that the election should be called at an early date. He declared that he believed that people in the district now realized that the level of local wells was dangerously low and that conditions were favorable at the present time for holding the election.

Saturday morning at 9 o'clock the delegates will join in devotionals to be led by Meta Seidel. The Rev. Schade will speak on "Sunday School Ideas," following which a round table discussion will be led by the Rev. Schroeder.

Election of officers who will serve for the ensuing fiscal year will be held at the conclusion of the morning session.

Saturday afternoon delegates will go to Huntington Beach for a beach outing and swimming party and from there they will journey to Long Beach where a picnic dinner in Bixby park has been planned.

The city of Anaheim was one of the first to join the Metropolitan Water District, believing that it was the only way to secure water from an outside source. Securing of power from the Boulder dam was seriously considered for a long time and the city council has recently instructed City Attorney George Holden to draw up a resolution to be sent to the district officials telling them that the city had decided not to use any of the power obtainable, although they still wanted their share of the water.

Anaheim operates a municipal power plant and according to John W. Price, city manager, power can be supplied to citizens of the town cheaper from the local plant than it could be obtained from the dam.

The organization will function in co-operation with the Orange County Development association, formed Monday of this week, of which Bruce V. Crandall is chairman.

U. S. EVEN IN DAVIS CUP PLAY Westminster Invades Bowl Tonight

THIRD QUARTER OF NIGHT BALL RACE NEAR END

Rapidly approaching the end of the third quarter of their National Night League programs, Santa Ana and Westminster meet here tonight with the Stars shouldering the responsibility, as well as the odds.

Santa Ana must keep right on winning to remain in stride behind the pace-setting Anaheim Valentines, and sometimes it is hard to win when you must win. Anaheim learned that last half when it finally fell to pieces tagging Santa Ana around the circuit.

George Lackaye's Stars are still playing winning baseball, however, and rate as favorites over the visiting Flyers, who are struggling along in the second division, although making an improved showing over their first-half progress.

Joe Cornelius and Ira DeBusk will be the rival moundsmen. Cornelius for Santa Ana because Lackaye is determined to pitch his "Iron Man" into shape. Cornelius has been rapped rather hard ever since his recent back injury. Lackaye lays this to lack of work and the boss wants "Jumpin' Joe" in shape for the long stretch run beginning next week. Cornelius can stand plenty of pitching, as he amply demonstrated last summer when, as the only winning hurler on the Stars' staff, he was forced to hurl almost every game.

Earl Morrell will be ready if Cornelius is still wobbly. The former Garden Grove gunner has been of tremendous assistance to the Stars this summer, for when Cornelius faltered he came to the rescue with some of the finest relief pitching ever seen in the bowl.

DeBusk, blond young Westminster submariner, is regarded as the league's best mound prospect. He is still a season or two away, but with steady work this season has developed remarkably. He has a dandy fast ball, seldom failing to run up a long string of strikeouts in every game. Recently he fanned twenty North Long Beach batters. Santa Ana holds two victories over him, 8-2 and 6-2, although there was nothing especially impressive in the Stars' hitting in either contest.

L. W. Miner, baseball coach at Huntington Beach high school, is managing the Aviators. He has a hustling bunch of youngsters, with just enough veterans sprinkled around to steady them. "Speed" Hankmeier, a Santa Ana, is coaching for the outfit, and Bob Bowe, another homesteader, who was with Garden Grove until that club blew up, has been added to the infield. Elmer Rogers or McGuire will be at first base, Wilson short and Sayers third. Burns, Gardner and Davis are the flycatchers.

Lackaye will make no change in the Stars' lineup unless he sends Randolph Bell back into the outfield in place of Joe Mene. Otherwise, Wilcox will catch, with Ed and Leif Daley, Hill and Scott at infield posts and Nelson and Merrill in the outfield.

Anahiem plays North Long Beach and, of course, should have no trouble winning. The Nomads have good hitting, but not good enough to scare the Valentines' fine pitchers. Sabella and Errington.

Olive goes to Whittier, Huntington Beach to Long Beach. Victories for Olive and Huntington Beach are likely.

The standings:

EDGREN WITHDRAWS
OBJECTION TO BAER

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—(UPI)—Max Baer's hopes for reinstatement in the good graces of the California athletic commission were bolstered today when Commissioner Robert Edgren announced he has withdrawn his objections to the Livermore butcher boy.

Since Edgren had been Baer's principal opponent, it was expected the commission would grant the fighter a new license at its meeting in Del Monte July 25.

Edgren based his objections to Baer on the latter's conduct in a fight with Frankie Campbell of San Francisco, in which Campbell was fatally injured.

Track Sports---

By CHARLOTTE C. WEST, M. D.

THERE is no longer any question as to whether girls can enter into track and field sports, but there is need for a good deal of caution in organizing physical activities for girls, especially during adolescence.

It is at this time that great physiological as well as psychological changes are taking place. Hence, every girl who is a candidate for sports of this character should undergo the most rigid physical examination.

Because of her different anatomical structure, and her previous lack of utter freedom in outdoor play, her muscular co-ordination is not comparable to that of her brothers.

The milder forms of track work are open to her, but high jumping, pole vaulting, hurdling, broad jumping, putting the shot, throwing the discus and long distance running are unnecessary features of a physical education program for young girls, and are believed by some to be the cause of permanent injury.

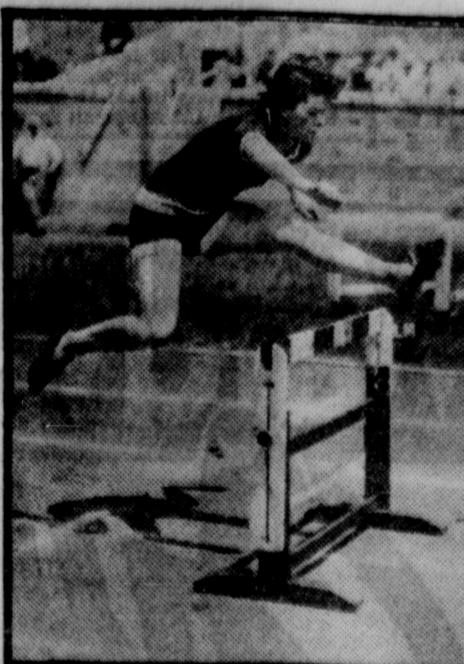

However, a thorough physical examination will determine for what kind of work she is best fitted. She may not jump, but she may be allowed to run. One girl inclines to sprinting or to longer runs. One has a fancy for hurdling or jumping.

ALL girls think they can run. There is a vast difference between natural and scientific running.

A 16-year-old girl who is dashing down the path to fame took part in her first meet this spring and sped down the 60-yard stretch in 7.35 seconds. She is a little high school girl, weighing 102 pounds. Her prominent position on the track is new, but her ability as a runner is almost as old as she. She began at the age of four.

Most runners are made, not born. Few girls run flat-footed, as do so many boys, but all must take their practice of running on the toes. This gives a springy carriage, while it overcomes defects and deformities of the feet. It is an ideal exercise for strengthening the arch of the foot and overcoming an inclination to Grace, agility and speed are developed by track work . . . as this photo of Helen Filkey, hurdles star, indicates.

and Your Figure

flat-foot, which prevents a graceful carriage. It strengthens, slenderizes and beautifies the feet, ankles and legs.

Long distance runs should not be taken by girls, who should confine themselves to dashes of 50, 75 and 100 yards.

All are agreed that preliminary training is necessary before a girl can enter into track work. The first practice days should be short and the work preceded by simple setting up exercises, which strengthen and give tone to the muscular system.

Girls must guard against chill. Muscles get stiff from too much work and from being chilled. Sweaters should be put on after the workout to prevent chilling. It is essential to watch the weight. An undue loss of weight is a sign to lay off.

YOU must especially guard against injuries to the skin. Blisters of the feet may cause a lot of trouble.

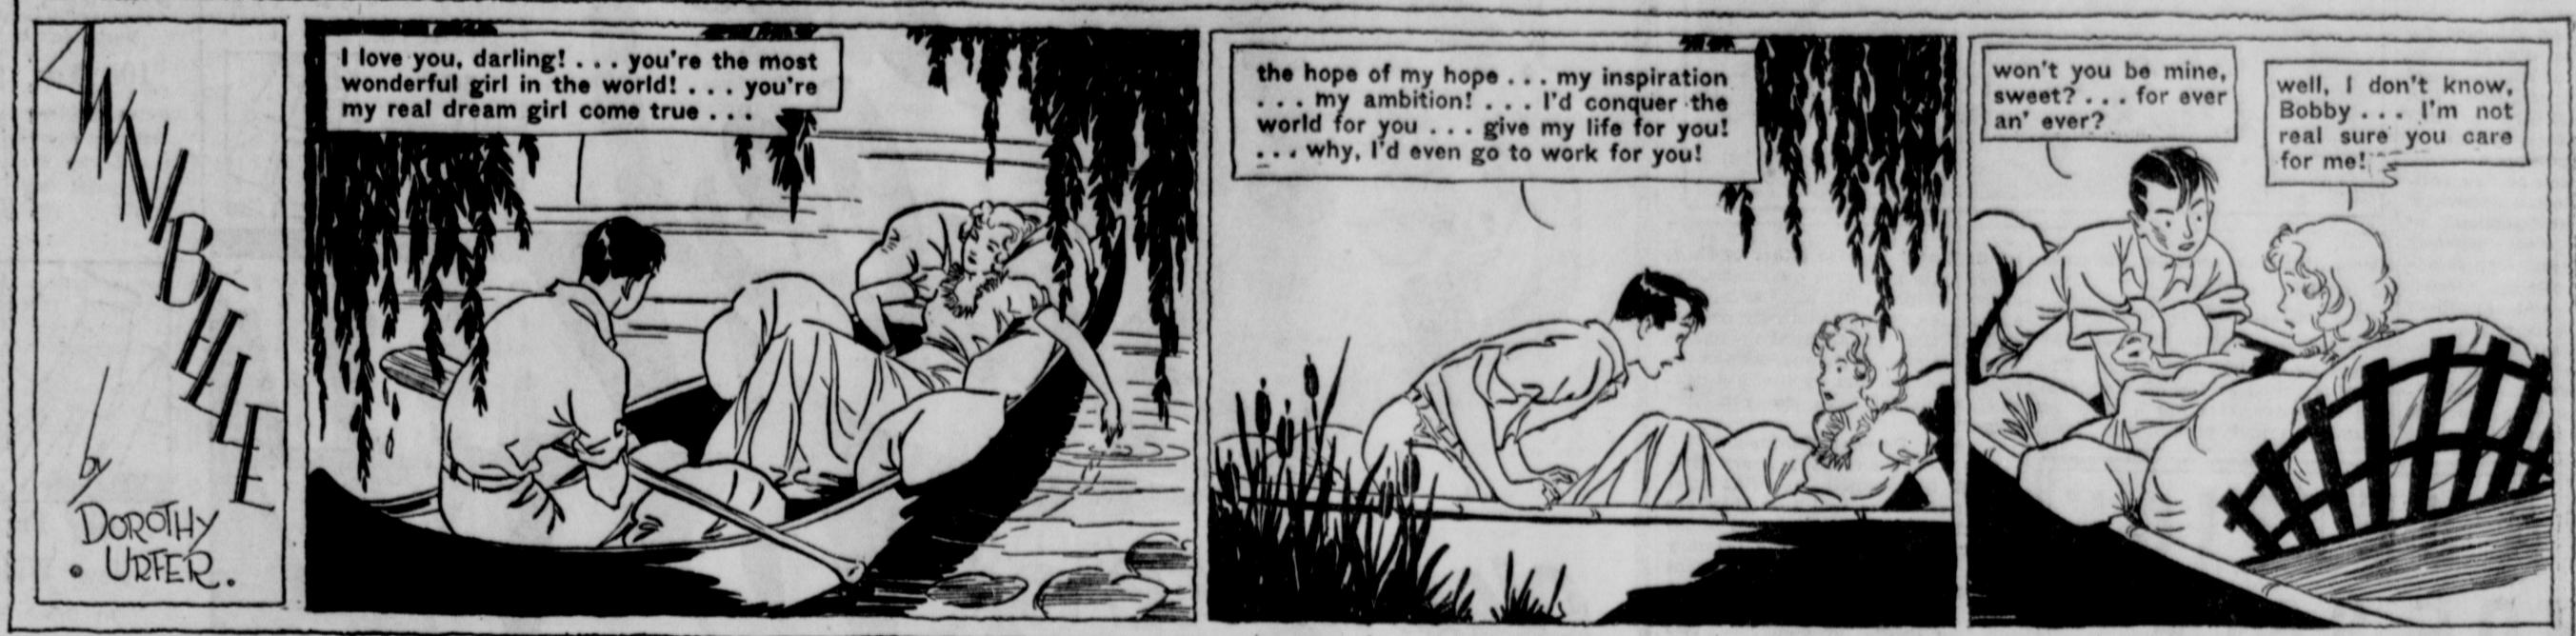

Practice on the track should never exceed six hours per week. There is a tendency especially on the part of girls to overdo in athletics. They are prone in their excitement to go beyond their strength and do themselves lasting harm.

The crouch, similar to the attitude of four-footed animals in the act of springing, is essential for shorter runs. For longer races the standing position is adopted, the figures resembling the sculptured forms of Atalanta and Diana.

These positions bring into active play every muscle in the body, and develop particularly those of the back and abdomen, so vital to healthy womanhood.

Grace, agility and speed are developed by track work and the clumsy, awkward, heavy girl is transformed, her body is molded into graceful lines, her skin glows with health and, contrary to our former antiquated ideas on athletics for women, those characteristics which we admire as belonging to the gentler sex are emphasized; above all her powers of endurance, always greater than in the male, are strengthened, so preparing her for a sturdier and more beautiful womanhood.

Phoning With Comfort

EVERY woman likes to dress up necessities so that they look like luxuries. Even the handle of the bread knife must be decorated, and the can opener gets a coat of bright-colored paint. And that most modern instrument of convenience—the telephone—must be made a part of the decoration scheme of the room.

If you are one of those persons who must be one jump ahead of the fashion, your living room has probably gone modern. In such a room one of those metal tables, with slick and shiny composition tops, will probably be a suitable resting place for the telephone. Some of these have the most surprising cubby holes and cupboards and into one of these the instrument may be placed.

In the more conservative room a small table, properly placed against a wall, may accommodate the phone. This table will also provide a place for the phone books, and its surface can be decorated with a vase, flowers or some ornament to bring it into the general scheme of the room.

THE telephone may be a most recent invention, but copies of some of the old period cabinets make an excellent house for it. These are seen in many woods and styles. Most of them have a door which drops conveniently, and compartments which are large enough for the telephone and the directories.

The telephone for the sun porch may be kept on a low table of reed or rattan or matting harmonizing with the furniture of the room.

If you have the latest thing in bedside tables you have one with a cabinet, the door of which swings down so that anything in the cabinet is equally accessible from either side. This style is particularly useful to place between twin beds. The telephone may be conveniently kept in this little cabinet.

Since the telephone has come off the wall onto the table, there must be a chair nearby for convenient use. Many of the small telephone tables have a little stool, decorated to match, which slip under the table when not in use. These are especially handy in small apartments where space is at a premium.

Don't forget the pad and pencil. No telephone cabinet or table is complete without them.

Foolish Questions---Foolish Answers

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"MOTHER, has this little flower got a name?"

"I suppose so, but don't bother me. I haven't any idea what it is."

"Mrs. Gregg always tells Eleanor the names of things. Mrs. Gregg knows everything."

"Well, suppose you go over and ask Mrs. Gregg then. I'm sorry. I'm such a dummy."

"Why, you're not a dummy, mother. You're just as smart as Mrs. Gregg, and I love you better than anyone on earth. Don't be mad."

"I'm not mad," laughed Mrs. Grier. "Come here, dear, and give me a kiss. But you are a sort of—of nuisance, you know, with all your questions."

After a few minutes:

"Mother, why do the birds like our mulberry trees so well?"

"I don't know, darling. Perhaps Mrs. Gregg could tell you. Why don't you ask her?"

"She wouldn't know."

"I thought you said she knew everything."

"OH, I don't think she'd know that. They haven't any mulberry trees. I think I'll go over and see Eleanor, though. She has a cute little pup. Did you see it? It's all black and it has whiskers. Imagine baby dogs having whiskers. Why do they, mother?"

THIS is no summer to waste time rocking on your front porch.

Just plan little odds and ends for busy fingers to pick up and you can justify spending hours out there or in the back yard under the big trees.

Hand-made presents are in style again. Hand-made gadgets are appearing in all the best homes. Have you made your quota?

Among the most colorful are cute sets of scalloped oilcloth for the breakfast table or for out-of-doors dinners and suppers. You can cut a lot of them from a yard of goods.

Get four yards of different colors of oilcloth, mark them out with a dinner plate and then, at your leisure, sit down, rock and snip-snip the scallops into them. You can have a set of four yourself, or eight, give several friends sets and feel happy all around.

Bridge towels are also nice things to make, outdoors. They are little bits of towels made of colored ordinary linen, hand-hemmed or made with hems of different colors. You can work hearts, spades, clubs and diamonds onto them.

You can make a set of plain ones, merely by hemming the sides and blind-hemming the bottoms with some other color. They are cut only 18 inches long and 10 inches wide. You hang them onto the towel rack, four different colors to-

"Don't be silly, Louise. You can ask more questions in a minute than I can answer in an hour."

"Well, do you know," said Louise seriously, screwing up her small face into thoughtful pucker, "I don't believe Mrs. Gregg knows so much, either. I believe she just bluffs. But I'll tell you, when she doesn't know anything she goes to the dictionary or some book or other and reads about it. I think that's awful."

"No, that's a fine idea. I'll buy a book on puppy dogs' whiskers at once."

"Say, Mother."

"What?"

"I know, you are just fooling, but—I don't know. When I ask questions I don't expect you to know. I guess I ask questions because I just want to talk. I don't know how to talk any other way except by asking things."

"That's a big relief. How on earth could I be expected to know the names of all the wild flowers, or why birds like mulberry trees, or why puppy dogs have whiskers?"

"I don't care about a single one of them, honestly," declared Louise. "I just wanted you to say something."

"Well, I did say something, didn't I? What did I say?"

"Oh, you said not to bother you, and I think you acted kind of jealous of Mrs. Gregg."

"Silly! I'm never jealous of anybody. Come on, I'll show you. Ask me something."

"Why—why is the moon round?" asked Louise suddenly. She eyed her mother fixedly.

The latter thought deeply. "I think," she mused, "that it must be because a square moon would look very queer."

Louise shrieked with delight, and her mother laughed, too.

"Say," said the youngster, "that's the way I want you to act. I'd rather you'd say that 'Oh, go way and don't bother me. Go and ask Mrs. Gregg next door.'"

THIS conversation reveals one truth of childhood that is too little understood. Children do ask questions for information, but far more because it is the way they make conversation. And they love nonsense and merriment.

If our children are always trekking off to the neighbor's, we may be sure there is more fun over there; the reason of Louise's visits we suspect was not Mrs. Gregg's dictionary, but the black pup. Mrs. Grier was very wise after all, in spite of her pretense at stupidity. She knew enough to guess at the reason behind her small daughter's conversation and seized her cue.

Children love people around them to be light-hearted and gay, rather than wise. The average family takes life much too seriously.

Hand-Made Gadgets---For Handy Maids

gather, yellow, lavender, pink, blue.

Bead work is very stylish right now and you can make yourself or somebody else lovely necklaces and bracelets of beads from the Five and Ten. You can get cord on which to string them with patient ends like needles right on the cord, so that picking up the beads is no trick whatsoever.

If you want to get fancy, a coral-colored string, with three big brown beads through which the smaller strings run, is a good color scheme. Black and white or white and navy blue are both good combinations of ets, lace collar and cuff sets, sofa pillows, table covers, embroidered towels or tea towels with colored patterns put in by hand work.

You can think, too, of the girls you know who are going away to college in the fall. Or boys. They all will want lots of things like sofa pillows with appliqued designs in gaudy oilcloth. This is one way to use up the odd-shaped bits that come out of the corners between the circles you cut for table mats.

The girls will love sachets, big envelopes of colorful silks or organdie, with a fresh scent in each different envelope.

Eating Around America

DEVILLED LOBSTER

By GAYNOR MADDOX

WHEN the sun shines on Faneuil Hall in Boston, the historic old pile throws its shadow across the most surpassing lobster stew known to hungry men. And when the great bell at Harvard College in Cambridge across the river booms the hour, hundreds of lobsters are sputtering on broilers in the city for young students out for a square meal.

The sea along the New England coast sent up clams and lobsters of irresistible delicacy to tempt the Pilgrim Fathers out of their severity, and if the recipes of New England are any proof, then certainly the shellfish won.

Durgin and Park's Wharf Restaurant, right across the street from Faneuil Hall, caters to lusty appetites in an understanding way. All its supplies bounce in fresh from the great markets nearby, and the sawdust on the floor and the buxom girls who swing huge trays of food up to the tables give the place the right atmosphere for serious eating.

It is there the famous lobster stew is made. There also hot Indian meal pudding served with vanilla ice cream flourishes, as well as strawberry shortcake that costs no more in winter than in the middle of June. And all this odd to say, is in stern New England.

BUT the cooking of lobster is also a domestic art in the city of culture and codfish. Baked beans, of course, and brown bread often come off the same stove, but to me, the lobsters of New England deserve far more attention from the intelligently hungry than the more talked-about specialties.

Split, stuffed with bread crumbs moistened with melted butter, and baked, or else broiled over a glowing bunch of coals and served with a pitcher of melted butter, lobsters reach their zenith. Personally, I think the less done with this gift from the gods of the sea the better, providing you can get them right out of the lobster fisherman's pot.

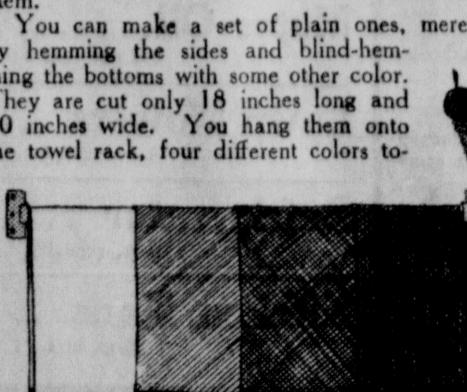

I have a friend in Boston whose mother married a Frenchman. Like all Frenchmen, this one soon worked out a way to enhance the wonders of good food. He deviled lobster in a manner that certainly merits international recognition.

Particularly so by those diners who live far from the sea yet near a corner grocery. You can use high quality canned lobster successfully in this dish.

Here's the family recipe. Steam 4 small fresh lobsters and cut out all the meat from body and claws. Chop in a bowl. If you use canned lobster, you will need 3 cups of meat.

Moisten 2 cups of bread crumbs in water and then add the following magical ingredients: 3 cups of cream, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 2 tablespoons cooking sherry, 3 hard-cooked eggs chopped, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, and season to taste with salt, cayenne and paprika.

Put in buttered baking dish, and cover top with 2 cups of buttered bread crumbs. Bake all this excellence in a moderate oven for 30 minutes. Smell it as it cooks. Watch it bubble and ooze. Then taste it, and send for all your most charming friends.

"Sit down, rock, and snip-snip the scallops into them. . . . You can make yourself lovely necklaces and bracelets. . . . Bridge towels are also nice things to make."

POLITICAL POT TO BUBBLE AND BOIL IN 1932

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Special to The Register)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 17.—(UP)—The year 1932 will be big political year in California.

The first of three elections scheduled for the year will be May 2. At that time electors of the Republican, Democratic and Socialist and Prohibition parties will nominate delegates to the national party conventions where the successor to Herbert Hoover will be chosen.

The outstanding political scrap in California will be for the United States senatorship at the state primary, August 30. Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, incumbent, will be a candidate for reelection and may be opposed by Friend W. Richardson, former governor of California, and either Congressman Phil D. Swing of El Centro or Congressman Joe Crall of Los Angeles.

Richardson has been groomed for the new congressional district to be created out of part of Alameda and all of Contra Costa counties. But recently he let it be known he wants to be a United States senator.

Choose Congressmen

At the same election 20 new congressmen will be elected (provided the referendum on reapportionment isn't invoked); 20 state senators from odd-numbered districts; 80 assemblymen, and a varied assortment of superior and appellate court judges.

The general election will be November 8 when the final vote will be cast on all candidates. Two referendum measures are in prospect for this election, as well as some

For 40 years the Australian steamer, Wodonga, traveled over 4,000,000 miles on the surface of the seas. And here she is, going beneath the waves for the first time, sunk off Sydney to get rid of the hull which previously had been stripped of its marketable equipment.

One referendum is against the congressional reapportionment law passed by the last legislature. The other is aimed at the oil conservation measures, creating a state oil commission and prohibiting "town

May Prevent Confusion

Candidates on the primary ballot will be permitted to print after their names the fact that they are incumbent, or their business, under a new amendment to the primary law. This is designed to prevent the confusion at the last election when two Youngs ran for governor, two Rileys for controller, two Johnsons for state treasurer, etc.

This is really a modification of the old plan of former Assemblyman Walter Schmitt of San Francisco. He proposed that in case of two men of the same name seeking the same office, each might be given a distinguishing mark, such as a star or crescent.

When the bill reached the desk of Friend W. Richardson, then the governor, he vetoed it promptly with a humorous message. This concluded with the query: "Why not a cabbage, an onion or a carrot, just as well as a star or crescent, or something else?"

Friends in Brea

BREA, July 17.—Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hyde and son, Edward, Jr., together with Mr. Hyde's uncle and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Roma Cox, left yesterday morning for Santa Barbara and vicinity. They are making a combined pleasure and business trip, the men following up a tip that they might find work in the oil fields near there. They are also taking several days in which to motor about, doing some camping and fishing.

Friends in Brea have word from Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Pendleton at Seattle, where they are visiting with the family of an uncle. They have been away almost three weeks on their month's vacation, part of which time has been spent in Vancouver. Mrs. W. H. Taylor has been staying in the Pendleton home on South Orange during their absence. Upon the return of the family, Mrs. Taylor plans to leave for San Antonio, Tex., where she will visit for some time with relatives.

A five-pound daughter was born Monday afternoon, July 13, to Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Morrison, residing on South Laurel street. She is the seventh child in the family.

Mrs. E. W. Curtis honored her husband on the occasion of his birthday anniversary by entertaining members of the family and friends at a dinner served at their beach cottage in Balboa. Places were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Curtis, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Snider; her sister and son, Mrs. Leah and Jack Middleton, and for Mr. and Mrs. George Allday, all of Long Beach.

Frank Schweitzer, a member of the Brea city council, is quite ill at his home on East Elm street.

Miss Judith Smith has been assisting in the Oilfields National bank during the absence on a vacation of Ray Cheatham, bookkeeper.

Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Cole are enjoying a two weeks' vacation, part of which is being spent at the beaches. Mr. Cole is manager of the filling station at the northwest corner of Birch and Pomona avenues.

Mrs. E. E. Anderson and sons, Marshall and Tommy, are house guests in Balboa of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Curtis for the next ten days. They left for the beach this afternoon. During their absence Mrs. Stella Keene will be in their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Jones and daughter, Miss Helen Watsoner, are visiting this week in Brea. Long Beach and Santa Monica from their home near Ramona. On Monday night and Tuesday they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Miller.

Word has reached Brea that Newton Stanger, on his vacation in the northern part of the state, had met with an automobile accident which necessitated his being taken to a hospital in Santa Rosa. Full information was not given, but it is thought that his injuries are not serious. Two ribs are said to have been broken and minor injuries sustained. Stanger left here in company with his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Kelly of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Stumbo, accompanied by Mrs. Hazel Vigor of Anaheim, recently visited the San Fernando hospital, carrying to the boys there some home-made cakes and candies. The gifts of both the Brea and Anaheim units of the auxiliary. They also visited the Hut in Los Angeles, returning the veteran-made articles left unsold at a recent orange show and fair held in Anaheim.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Hogue and Kenneth left today for Balboa, where they have taken a cottage for a month. Other Brea families now at the same beach resort are Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Venner, there for a 10-day outing; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hay and family, who have their summer home there; Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Curtis, also with a summer home there; the W. D. Shafford and Grant Sandman families; Mrs. Forrest Hurst and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Tremaine entertained several members of their family on Tuesday evening at a dinner given at their home in South Madrona, the occasion being the birthday anniversary of Mr. Tremaine's brother, Ellery Tremaine, recently returned from Alaska. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tremaine and Places were laid for the honor guests and hosts and for their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Tremaine; a niece, Miss Betty Jean Slabaugh, and for Sinclair Brown, the friend who accompanied Ellery home from Alaska. Later the party was joined by other members of the family, including children and Mrs. E. E. Anderson and two sons, for an evening music and games.

The next meeting of the art section of the Brea Woman's club will be held at Balboa at the beach cottage of Mrs. L. A. Hogue. The date will be July 23. No meeting of the section is being held this week.

Legislators Say Colorado River Essential

ASSERT THAT PROMPT ACTION IS NECESSARY

POSTPONE START OF SCOUT 'ROVER' TRIP

Revealing that Santa Ana, Orange county and southern California are using the last of their water resources and that an additional supply can be secured only by immediate construction of the Metropolitan aqueduct, a report of the joint committee of the California senate and assembly, dealing with state water problems, was placed yesterday in the hands of the citizens' Colorado river water committee.

Colonel S. H. Finley, Major John Knox and William Tway are Santa Ana representatives on the committee and it is expected that in the near future this city's representation will be increased to about 15.

Drawing attention to the serious water situation in this section, the report makes the following points:

(1) Present water resources have been exploited to the maximum.

(2) Colorado river water is the only adequate supply which is available.

(3) Eighty per cent of all water now in use in southern California is being pumped from rapidly dropping wells and only 20 per cent is coming from streams in Owens valley and locally.

(4) Water levels are being rapidly lowered throughout southern California.

Prompt Action Needed

William Lacy of Los Angeles, chairman of the citizens' committee, declared yesterday that his group will make a careful study of the document. That the people generally recognize the necessity of prompt action to solve the water problem is indicated, Lacy declared, by the fact that large numbers of endorsement cards are pouring in every day, urging immediate Colorado river aqueduct construction.

Referring to the water conditions of southern California, the report declares that "water resources have been exploited to the maximum." In addition, it is pointed out, that "if growth is to continue and further development in this region take place, the water necessary herefor must come from the Colorado river. This is the only available source."

"The committee is advised and we are of the opinion that the procuring of such water from the Colorado river is absolutely essential to the further development of southern California."

"In southern California 80 per cent of the water supply is now being drawn from wells and all available stream flow utilized. The water levels are being lowered by overdraft. The population increased from 1910 to 1920 85 per cent and its ratio is continuing. The only adequate relief must come from the Colorado river."

Members of the committee which filed the study with the legislature are the following: Assemblymen B. Crittenden, Van Bernard, F. W. Fixter, E. G. Adams; Senators Ralph E. Swing, H. C. Nelson, Will Sharkey and Edwin A. Mueller.

BAR GOVERNORS IN SESSION IN SAN FRANCISCO

The July meeting of the board of governors of the State Bar of California is being held today and tomorrow in San Francisco in the lounge rooms of the Alexander building, adjacent to the State Bar offices.

The board is considering the designation of delegates to the International Congress of Comparative Law to be held at The Hague in 1932. The appointment of three delegates to represent California at this great congress of lawyers from all over the world has been asked on behalf of the American Bar association by Dean John H. Wigmore of Northwestern University School of Law.

The matter of financing the cost of preparing California annotations to the American Law Institute's restatement of the law of contracts, now being made at the University of Southern California Law School, under the direction of William Green Hale, was discussed by the board.

Plan Program

The committee on program for the fourth annual meeting of the State Bar at Del Monte, October 1, 2 and 3, was scheduled to present report and a tentative program. The committee is composed of Governors Joe G. Sweet of San Francisco, chairman; Guy R. Crump, Los Angeles, and William H. Donahue, Oakland.

It is expected that a report will be presented by the committee on rules of procedure on admission to practice, of which Charles A. Beardsley of Oakland is chairman.

Authorized by the 1931 legislature, the study will be made over a period of two years, with the findings to be reported to the governor and the legislature in 1933 for the purpose of forming a basis for possible legislation "to improve our penal system."

One of the first phases of the survey will include a study of costs, representing at the present time an important portion of the taxpayer's dollar.

Particular attention is to be paid to the effectiveness or lack of our present penal methods, including the value of the varieties of punishments which are applied under existing laws.

Study Penal System

Other phases of the penal system as set up in California which will be closely scrutinized is the classification and segregation of county and state prisoners.

In order to make the survey really comprehensive, the bill provides that it shall be the duty of "all state officers" to co-operate in the investigation. This includes particularly the personnel of the departments of penology and institutions, the California crime commission, the bureau of criminal identification and investigation, and the bureau of public administration of the University of California.

In addition to this group, first hand data will be gathered and submitted by the local officers of the individual counties and cities, including their recommendations for improvements in existing laws.

It is hoped by sponsors of the survey that the investigation will make it possible for the state to enact laws whereby ample protection may be given citizens at less cost, at the same time affording offenders full consideration from a standpoint of justice.

Officers to be installed are Mrs. Mabel Ives, Noble Grand; Mrs. Eva Scott, Vice Noble Grand; Mrs. Maggie Myers, Recording Secretary, and Mrs. Kizzie Nylen, Treasurer.

CHICAGO'S REACTION

A sample of the problems which face the office of County Welfare Commissioner Walter Gregg was revealed today in the story of a family from Phoenix, Ariz.

A woman suffering from tuberculosis, with a family of three children, ranging from 9 to 16 years of age, arrived recently from Phoenix. A home was given the mother and children with an older daughter and her husband. But the husband was out of work.

The woman's tubercular condition became so serious that she either had to go to a hospital at the expense of the county or return to her home in Phoenix. Funds were provided for the family's return to its former home.

Burning of weeds along roadsides in Orange county has been completed, according to a statement made today by Sherman. This work has been done to lessen the danger of starting fires from burning material thrown from passing cars. Fire trucks operated by the county have been invaluable in this work, he declared, as a source of water under pressure was always available if an outbreak occurred.

The state will purchase a large fire truck that will be located in Orange in the near future, Sherman announced. The truck is expected to arrive within the next 20 days. The county has two trucks ready to fight fires in the county at the present time.

During the meeting to be held Wednesday, plans for making the public "fire hazard conscious" will be discussed. Points such as the tremendous waste of water necessitated in combatting a large fire, in addition to the property damage, will be revealed.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

Mulligan a Most Appetizing Dish

Paris comes this concoction for a better name, we b French Mulligan, for almost everything but the kitchen goes into it. Wouldn't this be hot dish for a country dinner.
All you'll need are essary ingredients, a big fry-pan, three flat stones and the building cooking fire.
A can of baked beans, add water and beef bouillon to it urn it over some crispy little sausages and strips of Stir until this boils, then the small boiled potatoes, a green pepper, some fresh beans if in season, and cook ther until the gravy sat-each ingredient.

Beat the eggs until they are frothy and thick; add the sugar when the eggs are half beaten.

When the desired frothy stage is reached, the cold water is put in, followed by the flour sifted with baking powder and salt. Whip the batter very smooth, add vanilla and melted butter and bake in a hot waffle iron at the table.

Have a bowlful of crushed and sweetened fruit, another of whipped, unsweetened cream on the table. Fix the shortcake this way—

Place the first crisp, hot waffle in a big plate, quickly fill the waffle iron with more batter, and when this is baking, spread the first waffle with a thick layer of fruit. Slip the second hot waffle over this layer of fruit, put more fruit on top and cut in pie shaped wedges. As each section is put on its serving plate, garnish with a spoonful of whipped cream.

For a luncheon dish nothing is better than shortcake waffles.

Something to drink is all else that is needed. Try them for supper on some hot evening—they are quickly made, satisfying and a labor saver for the cook.

Whipped cream, unsweetened.

Beat the eggs until they are

"YOU KNOW WHO KILL?"

Warner Oland, crafty Chinese detective in the play "The Black Camel" now showing at the Fox West Coast theater and Sally Eilers, in a scene from the show.

not be overlooked, for it is direct and powerful at all times. The story concerns a girl whose widowed father allows her to live her own life without reprimand at any time. As can be expected, she gets in trouble and the father finds that because of his attitude towards her, she will have to fight her own battles. There is a murder, a court scene and a sacrifice that long will be remembered. This reviewer recommends "A Free Soul" to any type of audience.

IT'S STRAWBERRY JAM TIME

STOP

... BOILING AWAY
COSTLY FRUIT JUICES!

Make your strawberry jam this week. Use the money saving short-boil way now followed by 4,000,000 jam and jelly makers. Saves 2½¢ on every glass. Saves ¾ of your time. Eliminates expensive failures. No other method like it.

JELLYMAKERS: No longer need you boil away costly fruit juices! Now you can turn every last bit into luscious strawberry jam or clear, sparkling jelly! When you follow the Certo short-boil way, only 1 minute's boiling is required, and hence no fruit juice boils away in steam. You usually get 50% more glasses. Including the cost of fruit, sugar and Certo, you often save 2½ cents per glass. More than that, if you follow directions, you take no chance of failure. Your jam will come out full flavored, colorful and with a daintier texture than you've ever known before. Now please remember! Only through the use of Certo and the Certo recipes can you follow this short-boil method of jam-making. So order a bottle today. 4,000,000 women, among them many State Fair jelly champions, swear by it.

Put up strawberry jam... and lots of it. Put up strawberry jelly, too. With Certo it is easy. Certo is a pure fruit product—a concentrated fruit pectin. And pectin, you know, is the substance which makes jelly "jell." Certo is a product of General Foods Corporation. It is sold by your grocer.

Under the Certo label you will find 93 recipes. Each has been carefully worked out for use with Certo. Please remember that in making jam and jelly every fruit is different. No one recipe can be made to fit them all. That is why we developed definite scientific recipes for each fruit. These recipes are your guarantee of perfect jams and jellies with any fruit you use.

93 RECIPES GIVEN:

George W. Larson, winner of 9 prizes at the 1930 Minnesota State Fair, died of the "Sweepstakes," most envied all prizes, with her Certo-made jams and jellies. She says, "Certo saved me money too!"

WINTERSBURG

WINTERSBURG, July 17.—A reception for the Rev. W. A. Matson, who was returned for the second year to the Wintersburg Methodist church by the annual conference, is being held Friday evening at the church social hall and everyone is cordially invited to be present to welcome this pastor and his wife.

The Missionary society of the Wintersburg Methodist church is meeting Thursday afternoon at Ballona Island where the members will be entertained by Mrs. W. F. Slater at the summer cottage where the Winter family are in vacation.

Mrs. Spafford of this place who is a member of the American Legion auxiliary at Huntington Beach was nominated as one of the three delegates from the post to attend the American Legion convention at Long Beach.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Matson and son, Wesley Matson, were in Alhambra, Wednesday evening as hosts at a surprise anniversary celebration given for Mrs. Matson's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Waggoner on their fortieth wedding anniversary. Correspondence with Mrs. Waggoner's only brother was responsible for himself and wife's arrival from the east last Monday, the honorees not realizing that their anniversary had anything to do with the trip, so when friends and relatives to the number of years they had been married arrived in their home Wednesday evening the Rev. and Mrs. Waggoner were completely surprised. Delightful refreshments were served and the honor guests were the recipient of a number of lovely gifts presented by the guests and a card shower from former parishioners.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Vandruff and members of the family were in Los Angeles, Thursday, where at the Lutheran hospital they visited Mrs. Estelle Hurst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vandruff and her young son born last Monday.

HUGE WHALE IS RENOVATED ON LONG JOURNEY

Fullerton and Mrs. Luva Rice and daughters Betty, Jean and Ruby of Huntington street spent Sunday at Laguna Beach. Betty Rice went home with Doraine Merchant to visit for two days.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kitchens of the Savanna grocery arrived home Tuesday from Santa Cruz where they were visiting with relatives.

Mrs. Earl Goodrum has gone back east to visit and Mr. Goodrum will make his home with his parents of Savanna avenue, while his wife is away.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Green of San Diego—"Your whale, Mr. Hayward, needs its face lifted. It is sagging badly."

Imagine being faced with the problem of a shrinking whale 1,500 miles from the ocean! Ralph Hayward faced and met the predicament during a tour of the east with one of California's biggest products.

For eight months, and over 30,000 miles of railroad track Hayward escorted and pampered his pet, Dead, to be sure, but nevertheless in constant need of care.

"The problem we faced when we decided to exhibit the whale was 'will it keep?'" said Hayward.

Embalming Used

"We called in a professional embalmer and, like Jonah, he entered the whale's interior, removed a 1,200-pound heart and a thousand gallons of blood, and then pumped 10,000 gallons of embalming fluid into it.

"After a few weeks, our leading lady began to shrink. Her care-free open countenance sagged disconsolately. We called in some experts, and they said face-lifting would restore her beauty.

"Go ahead and face-lift," we said. So they shot the carcass full of paraffin. They climbed all over it, shooting in the hot wax, just as though they were building up a boxer's nose.

"You never saw such a resurrection. The whale returned to life, glistening and fat."

Cities Skeptical

Some of the cities, Hayward added, were skeptical about letting them exhibit. Chicago was the worst, he continued, but in Cleveland he executed a contract with the city making it a partner in a deal which allowed the use of a city-owned track in the public square.

Later, Hayward said, he sold the whale to Cleveland, and Col. H. J. Twelvetrees, commissioner of the public auditorium, put it on "permanent" exhibition.

Strange to say, the best business was not in inland cities. "We did a tremendous business on the New England coast, birthplace of the whaling industry. Old whalers came for miles to see a whale on a railroad car," he added.

THE UNITED STATES SITS IN

President Hoover has appointed Secretary of State Stimson and Secretary of Treasury Mellon as representatives of the United States, to sit in at the emergency conference which is to meet in London next Monday. Some will criticize President Hoover for this, probably, but we do not see how he could do anything else. Without the United States sitting in, this parley would be like the play of "Hamlet" without Hamlet. We are the chief stockholder in the company.

This conference is to consider the present emergency problems in Central Europe. It will have the whole economic and financial situation of the world before it. It will have before it the Young plan, the debts of the various nations, the obligations to this country, and all of this as it relates to rehabilitation.

President Hoover, in making this appointment, makes the announcement that "this conference is to be confined to the present emergency." This is for the purpose of creating a defense, or an alibi, against those who might claim that it is a step toward the League of Nations, or it is entering into "entangling alliances."

If there can be anything more absurd than the attitude which the United States assumes upon the whole international situation, we cannot conceive of it. The crises which are constantly arising in Europe are the natural culmination of their relationships and attitudes, one to the other, and to the plans and planning which result, as we have suggested, in these crises.

In between these extreme events, we, along with the rest of the world, muddle along, but the United States is always forced, because of her direct interest, financial and otherwise, in the problems of every nation, to be represented at the time of crisis. And yet she has had no voice or directing power to aid in avoiding such crises; in making them less severe, or in solving the problem with the permanency that must always be accompanied by constant observation and control.

The only way we can really aid ourselves in the fullest measure, in times of emergency, is to do our part in the interval between emergencies. It is as though the chief investor in a corporation permitted the smaller stockholders to entirely conduct the corporation business until it reached the point of complete collapse, when he steps in, helps it out, suggests a remedy, and then jumps out of the office and disappears, until through misguidance, losses, friction and conflict, they have almost ruined the institution and he hurries back to protect his interest.

And then like the idiot he is, he gives as an excuse for not sitting in on the actual management of the institution, that he wants to avoid "entangling alliances" with these people, with whom he has invested and associated himself in this very enterprise.

We are in the neighborhood; it is a neighborhood proposition; we are neighbors — we may not act like it a great deal of the time, but there isn't any sense in our denying our identity. Even Hudson, who married "Ma" Kennedy, who apparently had several other wives living and undivorced, admitted this when he was confronted with it. But the United States, when confronted with the plain facts in the case, denies that we are a part of the world problems.

Some years ago an Englishman said that he noted as he traveled about America, that when America was confronted with a perfectly plain duty that she didn't want to perform she refused to perform it and designated it as a "problem."

The time will come when the intelligent American citizens will recognize that as a majority stockholder in the business enterprises of the world, America not only has the right, but she should exercise that right, in aiding to manage the enterprises in which she has made the investment. This points directly to the League of Nations and the World Court.

DEATH AVERAGES POLITICAL PARTIES IN CONGRESS

In one of our editorials following the last national election when it was learned that the Republicans were to control the national house by the slim margin of one vote, we called attention to the possible change by death of the political complexion of the House. We noted the computed number of deaths that were likely in a group of men of the average age of the members of Congress, and we now see that this average holds perfectly. Already six members of the House have died since their election last November, and it may be expected that at least three or four more will die before Congress convenes next December. The actuarial computation holds with uncanny certitude.

This same law of averages holds with interesting certainty also as between the two parties. It so happens that of the six members who have died, three are Republicans and three are Democrats, so that the balance between the parties stands the same as the day after the election last November. This balance is likely to hold until Congress meets, although the odd one may as likely be a Republican as a Democrat, in which case the House will be a tie, with the deciding vote in the keeping of the single Farmer-Labor member from Minnesota, Mr. Kvale.

So, it will be seen that it is not yet decided whether the House will be organized by Republicans or Democrats. In case a Republican dies just before the convening of Congress, in which case his successor cannot be chosen in time to qualify, the House may be organized by the Democrats.

This law of averages, which was the subject of a most interesting discussion by Bertrand Russell in an article in the Atlantic last year, is almost as stable as the rising of the sun and the changes in the phases of the moon. It is that law which gives us almost an exact balance of the sexes in our population, despite the fact that whether it will be a boy or a girl seems nothing but chance. It is that fact which makes average computations almost as reliable as mathematical equations.

VACATION TIME

Vacation time has become so much a part of social existence that it is not easy to conceive that it is of comparatively recent origin. In the '70's of the last century vacations for the generality of the people were unknown. They took a day off occasionally to go to a picnic or an outing, but a protracted period of a week, or a month, was unknown. Even the minister and the school teacher stayed at home during the summer period to tend their gardens or engage in some other form of work.

Vacations became necessary as urban populations grew. The lure of the country did not exist before the growth of great industrial centers because the country was near at hand. Green fields, swimming holes, and woods and mountains, were within the reach of all. Now one has to travel some miles to find all these when he dwells in a large city. Besides, the nervous wrack of our modern machine age needs re-creation for the physical and mental self. So we have vacations, and may all share in this change and pleasure.

Papers and Kids

San Diego Union

Mr. Angelo Patri says that our children should be taught to read the newspaper, and that the process should begin just as soon as the children are able to read at all.

Newspapers are "hard," by and large, and children are tender, and Mr. Patri's dictum will come as a shock to many a careful parent who has grown to trust and admire Mr. Patri's daily counsel. And yet, like most of the advice Mr. Patri gives, this recommendation is backed by sound logic and a level-headed, sympathetic understanding of the world in which our children live, with us.

The newspaper is the day's record, and it is "hard" for two reasons. First, it aims at arousing, interesting, exciting its readers, and thus it tends to select and "play" the news that is crowded with sensation—adult sensation. Second, the world whose functioning it records is a hard world, blurred with very little of the make-believe that makes the world habitable to the child. But, with all its obvious defects as literature for children, the newspaper is the day's record.

Now the child is going eventually to get his record of the day—one way or another, he is going to get it. Mr. Patri's point is that he had best get it in his own parents' home, surrounded by whatever atmosphere of discrimination, intelligence and good taste his parents have been able to create there.

The child's growing up is hard on his mother and father. Some of it must be done away from home. But some of it can be done in the home, and this newspaper-reading phase is one feature of it.

Mr. Patri only suggests that parents may well participate in and guide and enrich this part of the growing-up process, since—fortunately or otherwise, they can't prevent it.

Not So Innocent, Perhaps

New York Times

From Henderson, Ky., comes the expected yarn. In the Negro quarter of that town tradesmen cannot collect their bills. "Mr. Hoover done said evahbody's debts is suspended for a year," is the position. It makes a good story. Up North and Down East there will be tender smiles for these children of nature.

Among Southerners, resident and transplanted, there will be lifted eyebrows and some slow, affirmative nodding of heads. Well they know their old playfellow and servants. They are aware of the innocent way in which the colored members of the household can pretend to a mental confusion which does not exist. "Judge, does you mean dis comin' July?" the query of the Negro sentenced to death, must not be taken to indicate that there was any doubt in the mind of the victim. These shrewd people know that the severity of white folks is best mitigated by an appeal to sensibilities.

Undoubtedly when the Henderson merchants heard the news about a local moratorium they laughed before they tried to cope with the "misunderstanding." In that laugh the Negroes have found a lot of useful leeway.

Air Pigs Might Supply Bacon to Go With Eggs

San Francisco Chronicle

An airplane shaped like a rooster and so built that it flaps its wings when it flies has been patented in the United States by a citizen of the Dominican Republic. The flapping, it appears, is only an added attraction for the plane gets its propulsion mostly from an orthodox propeller held in the bird's beak.

Just why the inventor chose a rooster instead of a bird of flight, the specifications do not say. Perhaps, patriotic reasons figured in the choice. The Dominicans, fond of cock fighting, may look on the rooster as the only national bird, socially if not officially.

Then, so ingenious a device as this plane seems susceptible of interesting development. No doubt the rooster can be taught to crow, thus announcing its approach to an airport.

For less gala occasions, perhaps, the plane could be built to resemble the humble hen and trained to lay an egg now and then, thus providing omelettes for the passengers.

THE EXPLORER

I've often gazed upon the great gorilla,
I've looked upon the placid, earnest yak;
I've seen the pink flamingo
And the little fury dingo
That roams the plain and never leaves a track.
I've watched the duck-billed platypus meander
Along the beach, his hunger to assuage,
And wondered at the creature's
Scrambled and assorted features,
And marvelled at his mingled parentage.

I've faced the King of beasts without a shudder,
I've looked a Bengal tiger in the eye;
I've watched a nilgau wander
Here and there and over yonder,
I've seen an infant condor learn to fly.
I've seen a savage killer whale careering
Behind his prey, in frigid Greenland bays,
A walrus I have followed
As through arctic seas she swallowed
And fixed on me his speculative gaze.

I do not like on alien seas to travel,
My vision with uncommon sights to fill;
The turbulent commotion
Of a wind-swept, restless ocean.
Has never failed to make me very ill.
And so these sights in which I have delighted
I have not seen in Africa or Nome;
I still remain a stranger
To all forms of deadly danger—
I've seen 'em in the news reels here at home.

Policies Without Plans

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Increased expenditures for public works as one means of preventing business depressions is now almost universally accepted as sound public policy. The policy has been advocated in many countries for more than a century. It was urged in 1923 by President Harding's Conference on Unemployment. It was unanimously endorsed by the American Federation of Labor. It has more than once been a plank in the platform of the Democratic Party.

Most dramatic of all was the endorsement by Mr. Hoover immediately after his election. At the Conference of Governors in New Orleans in November, 1928, Mr. Hoover asked the cooperation of all the states in putting that policy into operation at the first signs of an impending business depression. Governor Brewster of Maine, spokesman for the President, enlarged upon the stimulating effect of a fund of three billion dollars, released by Federal, State and city governments, in the early months of a business decline. The whole country applauded this announcement. Only one of the governors voiced any opposition at all. Only three percent of the newspapers, by actual count, had anything to say against the proposal. The whole country assumed that the policy would promptly be made effective.

Twelve months later came the crash in the stock market. Meantime, nothing had been done by the Federal Government toward getting ready to carry out the policy. There was no plan. The country was caught napping. As a result, no more money was spent by the Government on public works in the first year of this depression than in the previous year of prosperity.

We seem to have learned the lesson at last. It is not enough to express pious wishes. It is not enough to agree upon a policy. We must have a plan. Far in advance of catastrophe, we must get ready our blueprints, specifications, contracts, sites and bank credit. Policies without plans create no jobs.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

A FIVE-FOLD CRUSADE

(1) Economic Emancipation ("preaching to the poor").

(2) Psychological Emancipation ("healing the broken-hearted").

(3) Social Emancipation ("preaching deliverance to captives").

(4) Physical Emancipation ("recovery of sight to the blind").

(5) Political Emancipation ("setting at liberty them that are bruised").

Here is a program to be taken to heart by the political and economic leaders of our time.

And we might make more rapid headway towards political, economic and social progress if more religious leaders based their crusades upon this broad five-fold foundation, deliberately setting out to rescue religion from aplotism and relating it to the human perplexities and hungers of the workaday world.

And we shall find, I think, that not a little of our success in stabilizing our economic order will depend upon our ability to effect a creative inter-relation between economics, without which the church grows anemic and the social order aimless.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

CONSIDER HIS DIGNITY

The visitor was just launching into what promised to be a good story when mother said, "Come, Augustus John, it is time you went to bed."

Augustus John straightened to a full height of his seven year old person and with anger and bitterness assailed his astounded mother. "I will not. I'll go to bed when I like. I don't have to mind you."

Well, it was too bad. Augustus John, when he came to think over the matter in the hour of reason, was very sorry. He didn't mean to hurt his mother's feelings.

He didn't mean to be a bad mannered child. He was truly repentant. But mother was crushed. What sort of changeling was this?

Up to the fatal moment he had been the sweetest child. Then this.

While mother was still cherishing her precious baby he had been growing up. He was changing into a person with a will of his own, with desires and ambitions and hungers. He longed to be grown up. He wanted to count among those who counted. Just that day his teacher had said, "John Augustus, you are the best pupil in this class. From now on you are the leader." And then what? His mother told him to go to bed just as if he was a baby. Right before the visitor, too. What would the visitor think?

Children have strange notions. They make queer deductions. They twist things into weird forms. This little boy, and many more like him, had been feeling grown up for quite a little time. He no longer felt like a little boy. He was a big boy, as big as father. Then his mother treated him like that and he lost hold of himself in an effort to maintain his dignity under the better.

Make a place for the expanding personality of the child in the household. Treat him with respect. This is not a plea for license and bad manners in general. The child who is treated with courtesy and consideration is likely to be well mannered under any conditions. Have a little regard for his dignity.

A well rounded household sets the stage for the children's behavior. The little lad should have been trained to attend to his own bedtime. He should have excused himself and retired without a word from anyone. Should it become necessary to give a direction to a child make sure that there is no audience to embarrass him.
